The city detective who ended the murder case of the State vs. Jimmy Miles by a fatal shot he fired at Miles shortly before midnight Wednesday, was exonerated by a coroner's jury today. The verdict was "homicide in the performance of police duty."

There was no testimony at the inquest this morning except that of Special Officer Samuel Robbins, plain-clothes man, who shot Miles in the course of a routine police search for weapons, and his walking partner, Special Officer Edward J. McNulty. They repeated statements made to reporters the morning after the shooting, but McNulty added that he had given Miles a warning to keep his hands out of his pockets.

When Deputy Coroner Dever asked if any one else wanted to be heard in the case there was no response.

Murder Charge Against Miles.

Miles had been charged with the murder of Charles J. O'Neal in the Washington Hotel bar Feb. 5 at St. Louis. He was one witness to that killing, Rudolf Schaefer, who had told varying stories of Miles' connection with the murder. Schaefer, fearing for his own safety, was waiting for a time, but was released in the case a week ago, after Miles, who was a son of the late Justice of the Peace Jimmy Miles, had been shot and killed.

Officer Robbins testified that he and McNulty were walking east on the south side of Delmar boulevard at 11:50 p. m. Wednesday, and when in front of a saloon at No. 144, which Schaefer was known to frequent, they saw Miles stop the car across the street, at the southeast corner of Aubert avenue. He crossed the street and they went towards him.

"We recognized him and shouted, 'Halt, Jimmy,'" Robbins went on. "I searched him—felt his pockets, his waistband and his vest pockets, where I knew he carried a revolver. He reached for his inside coat-pocket with his left hand, and he did that he raised his coat and I saw his fingers grasping a revolver. I grabbed my revolver and shot at once, and he crumpled and fell."

Robbins said Miles did not say a word. Assistant Circuit Attorney Schneider inquired what the officers had been doing there. Robbins repeated a previous explanation that they had gone there the night before on information that Miles had been in the vicinity, intoxicated, and possibly was looking for Schaefer. Robbins said they returned to the vicinity Wednesday night because of this. He added that Miles appeared slightly intoxicated.

Officer McNulty gave a similar description of the occurrence, and said: "I informed Miles, 'We're police officers,' and told him to stop his hands out of his pockets. We were five or six feet away from him then."

No mention was made in testimony of resistance which the officers at first said Miles had offered. The story Miles told his wife before he died was not introduced. She said that related that he had been handed over his revolver and that Robbins hit him with it. Miles, she said, threw up his hands to protect his head, and Robbins might have thought then he was resisting.

Before his death at city hospital No. 441 p. m. Sunday, attendees related today, Miles seemed profuse for some time repeatedly declaring, "I'll get Schaefer." He seemed somewhat delirious.

The funeral will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow from the residence of his late wife, 1517 North Broadway street, west of the cemetery. Miles had given his own residence as 5544 Pershing avenue.

PLAN OF JACOB FRANKS

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—PLANS for a trust fund that may be used after his death to oppose any efforts to free Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, announced today by Jacob Franks, father of the boy they killed.

The fund must never give freedom, he declared. "A lenient Governor, a shrewd lawyer, an indifferent people—and their liberation would be the matter of only a short time, unless provision were made to combat any effort to get them out of Joliet."

"I don't know how long I shall live. During my life I will fight any move to defeat justice. After my death the trust fund will be available."

JUDGE WOODSON, 69, SAVES
HIS SON FROM ANGRY BULL

Holds Animal by Tail Until Younger Man Finds Shelter, Then He Escapes at Fence.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 21.—Supreme Judge Archelaus M. Woodson, 69 years old, saved his son, A. M. Woodson Jr., from being gored to death by a bull last Sunday on the Woodson farm, northwest of Jefferson City, by attacking the animal with a pocket knife. The younger Woodson escaped with cuts and bruises.

The two men were walking in a field in which the animal was grazing when the bull suddenly dashed at the younger Woodson and tossed him in the air. As the bull charged again Judge Woodson grasped its tail and stabbed the animal several times with his knife, momentarily diverting it from the attack. The judge's son crawled under a water trough. While the bull was trying to overturn the water trough, Judge Woodson slipped through the fence and got a pistol at the farm house. He fired four shots at the animal before driving away.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 21.—A mother and her daughter are at almost irreconcilable odds over the identity of Robert E. St. Clair, convict in the Atlanta Federal Prison, who, it is claimed, is the supposedly dead son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Bergeron of Menasha, Wis., mourned for dead on the battlefields of France.

Mrs. Lulu Emmerlich, the daughter, contends that St. Clair is an impostor and is not Urban John Bergeron, as Mrs. Bergeron, the mother, stoutly insists, despite the disclosure that Bergeron's fingerprints, as listed at the War Department, do not tally with those of St. Clair.

The latest development in this weird case, which has claimed the attention of Red Cross authorities in the effort to ferret out the mystery, is the open break between Mrs. Bergeron and her daughter, Mrs. Emmerlich has moved away from her mother's boarding house and is said to be employing counsel to prove definitely that St. Clair is not her brother.

Age Question Unanswered.
"The man is an impostor—he is not my brother," she declared yesterday at the Federal Prison, as she quit St. Clair's cell. She had been allowed to see the convict while Mrs. Bergeron was turned away, due to the fact that she had made three previous trips to the penitentiary in recent days. Mr. Bergeron has gone back to Menasha to await further developments.

Mrs. Emmerlich told Federal prison authorities that St. Clair had refused to tell her under what name he had been confirmed in the Catholic Church and also refused to state the difference between her age and that of the supposedly dead Urban John Bergeron. His guards also stated that St. Clair has begun to stutter following a query from Mrs. Emmerlich as to when he overcame that habit. He told her that she shock in France had afforded him relief.

Atlanta Red Cross officials have requested to the New Orleans chapter that it investigate the New Orleans woman whose letter to Mrs. Bergeron brought the Wisconsin man to the prison. Nothing is known here of St. Clair beyond the fact that he was convicted in New Orleans three months ago of violating the national motor vehicle act and given an 18 month term.

The Red Cross officials are quoted as saying Mrs. Bergeron had told them St. Clair urged her to turn all the family property into cash by the time his term in prison expired so she, "father" and he could go to the Far West and start life anew.

Mrs. Bergeron came to Atlanta upon receipt of a letter from New Orleans signed "Mrs. Lucille Oldhorn," which requested information regarding a young man named "Urban John," and gave other details which led Mrs. Bergeron to believe her son lived. She identified St. Clair as her son when she reached here.

The War Department a few days ago officially declared that the finger prints of St. Clair did not coincide with those of the man who enlisted as Urban John Bergeron.

Charge of Republican Chairman.WAS SPECTATOR AT KLAN GATHERINGSays He Was "Curious and Interested Spectator,"
but Left Before Meeting

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WAYNESVILLE, Mo., Oct. 21.—Dr. Arthur W. Nelson, Democratic nominee for Governor, issued a formal statement here this afternoon in which he denied that he is or ever was a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

The candidate's statement was in reply to a statement published in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat this morning wherein W. F. Phares, chairman of the Republican State Committee, charged that Nelson joined the Klan in June of last year. Chairman Phares' statement was accompanied by two affidavits, signed by three men who said they are Klansmen, purporting to show that Nelson was initiated into the Klan at California, Mo., and that his name was in the records of the Tipton (Mo.) lodge of the Klan on Oct. 1 last.

To Continue Schedule.
The Democratic State Committee, in a telephone conversation with Dr. Nelson, had suggested that he interrupt his speaking tour to return to St. Louis tonight to make complete denial of the Republican charges, but Dr. Nelson announced he would content himself with the formal statement issued here and that after his afternoon address here today he would go to Lebanon for an address tonight and then continue his schedule as previously arranged.

"These affidavits are the culmination of a whispering campaign which has been conducted under the direction of the Republican State Committee for several weeks and of which, because of its character, I have refused to take notice," said Dr. Nelson.

"Since their whispered allegations have been put into the form of affidavits, I will recite the facts of affidavits, I will recite the facts to show from just what filthy material the entire story has been concocted," Dr. Nelson added.

Spectator at Meeting.
Dr. Nelson admitted that he was "a curious and interested spectator" at a Klan gathering in California, Mo., as C. S. Burns' affidavit that he saw Dr. Nelson initiated there, the candidate says.

Dr. Nelson, in California with a friend on business, learned a Klan gathering was to be held there that evening, so his friend made inquiry to learn if they could be onlookers. The friend returned with two men who had cards which they said would admit Dr. Nelson and his friend to the meeting if they signed them.

Signed a Card.
"The cards contained some sort of declaration of principles but there was nothing to indicate that they were applications for membership in the Klan," said Dr. Nelson. "I signed one of the cards and with hundreds of others attended the meeting."

Dr. Nelson added that he watched the Klan proceedings for a time and then departed, the affair lacking interest. "I saw no initiation service while I was at the meeting," he added.

Never Saw Klan Book.
Regarding the statement that his name appears on the books of the Klan at Tipton, Dr. Nelson said: "I have no knowledge of what appears on any Klan book. I never have seen a Klan book of any kind."

"I know," he continued, "that I have never received any communication from the Klan, never have joined it, never have made application to join it and never have paid any initiation fee, dues or anything of the kind."

He "unqualifiedly branded as deliberately false" a statement by Chairman Phares of the Republican

THAT OF REPUBLICANSStatement of Dr. Nelson
Denying He Ever Joined Klan

WAYNESVILLE, Mo., Oct. 21.—The text of Dr. Arthur W. Nelson's statement, denying that he ever joined the Ku Klux Klan, follows: My attention has been called to statements purporting to have been signed and sworn to by one B. L. Morris, one F. A. Collins and one C. S. Burns, alleging that I am, to their knowledge, a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

These affidavits are the culmination of a whispering campaign which has been conducted under the direction of the Republican State Committee for several weeks and of which, because of its character, I have refused to take notice.

Recites Facts.
Since their whispered allegations have been put into the form of affidavits, I will recite the facts to show from just what filthy material the entire story has been concocted.

Mr. Burns, in his statement, said he saw me initiated into the Klan at California, Mo., and that he saw me and shook hands with me on that occasion. I saw a Mr. Burns, whom I suppose is the man making the affidavit, on an occasion when I was a curious and interested spectator at a Klan gathering at California. As to his statement that he saw me initiated, he either is honestly mistaken or is maliciously making a mistake.

"I was in California with a friend on business. As evening approached we noticed the town was filling with people and upon inquiry found that there was to be a Klan gathering near town. I expressed a desire to see what such a thing was like and my friend made inquiry to learn if we would be onlookers."

Signed a Card.
"He returned with two men who had cards, which they said would admit us to the meeting if we signed them. The cards contained some sort of declaration of principles but there was nothing to indicate that they were applications for membership in the Klan. I signed one of the cards and with hundreds of others attended the meeting. "We watched the proceedings for a time and then departed, the affair lacking interest."

"I saw no initiation service while I was at the meeting. The only time I had ever been near any sort of a Ku Klux Klan meeting Dr. Nelson added was in Carthage, Mo., when he attended the Jasper County Fair. "I was seated in a box when several automobiles containing persons in Klan costume drove around the track and on out," he stated.

Never Saw Klan Book.
Regarding the statement that his name appears on the books of the Klan at Tipton, Dr. Nelson said: "I have no knowledge of what appears on any Klan book. I never have seen a Klan book of any kind."

"I know," he continued, "that I have never received any communication from the Klan, never have joined it, never have made application to join it and never have paid any initiation fee, dues or anything of the kind."

He "unqualifiedly branded as deliberately false" a statement by Chairman Phares of the Republican State Committee, in which he says that I have held myself out to be a member of the Klan in communities in which the Klan is strong and that in anti-Klan territory I have reiterated my statement that I have stood with John W. Davis. This statement I unqualifiedly brand as deliberately false. I never at any time have asked or sought the support of Davis, nor on the ground of religion, race or color, or by reason of their affiliation with any organization.

When I am elected Governor, in the selection of those who must be associated with me in the conduct of the State's affairs, I will appoint those who are fit to properly discharge the duties of the office, and in doing so I will not take into consideration their religious affiliations or the accident of their place of birth.

Bureau expenses were listed as follows: Naturalized citizens, $11,038; organization, $15,326; publicity, $19,766; speakers, $14,670; treasurer, $11,918; women, $6,654; labor, $4,109; foreign language, $11,157; colored, $11,681.

Testifying before the committee last Friday, at Chicago, William M. Butler, Republican national chairman, testified the Republican campaign committee had received contributions up to Oct. 10, totaling $1,714,000. Butler further stated that the organization intended, if possible, to raise an additional $1,300,000 to carry on its work.

Chadbourne supported McAdoo. Going over the list of contributors, most of which was made public last night in New York, the committee members asked the Democratic treasurer to identify some of them. Thomas L. Chadbourne of Greenwich, Conn., who contributed $25,000, was identified as a banker. Senator Caraway (Dem.), Arkansas, developed that Chadbourne was a chief supporter of William G. McAdoo in the re-convention organization.

"John D. Ryan, $50,000," the chairman began from the list. "Who is Ryan?"

"He is president of the Anaconda Copper Co.," Gerard replied.

C. W. Watson, who contributed $50,000, was identified as a former United States Senator from West Virginia. "I think he is a coal operator," said the witness.

Samuel Untermyer, who also contributed $50,000, was identified as "A New York lawyer." He has agreed to assist Frank P. Walsh, counsel for Senator La Follette, in the committee's investigation.

Garrett donated $10,000. Francis P. Garvan, who gave $10,000, is the former Allen Property Custodian, Gerard said.

"Is he the man who was concerned in litigation in that respect?" asked Borah. "He is."

Borah read from the list: "Bernard M. Baruch, $25,000; Henry Morgenthau, former Ambassador to Turkey, $25,000; Frank L. Polk, former Under-Secretary of State, $25,000; and Cleveland H. Dodge, New York, $50,000."

"What's Mr. Dodge's business?" asked Borah. "He is in the copper business."

Replying to other questions, Gerard said Dodge was not associated in that business with Ryan.

"Are there any organizations to be continued on Page 3, Column 4."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Contributions totaling $548,440 have been made to the Democratic national campaign fund to date, James W. Gerard, the party's national treasurer, testified today before the Senate Investigating Committee.

A statement put into the record by the party treasurer showed total commitments of $597,119, of which $461,801 had been paid. Gerard estimated that the final total of the campaign would not exceed $750,000.

The statement submitted by Gerard listed among the unpaid bills $25,916 for advertising and $79,674 for printing and stationery. Expenses of Headquarters.

The expenses of the Chicago headquarters were placed at $35,000 and those of the Washington headquarters at $154,923. The payroll in New York headquarters was given as $39,394 and that of the Washington office $40,814.

SALE HELD VIOLATION OF WOMAN'S HOMESTEAD RIGHTS

Sheriff's Auction of Property at 3142 Lafayette Avenue Set Aside by Court.

A Sheriff's sale of property at 3142 Lafayette avenue on March 25, 1931, was set aside by Circuit Judge Calhoun yesterday and title to the property reinvested in Mrs. Margaret Gunn, of the Lafayette avenue address, on the ground that the transaction was made in violation of her homestead rights.

The property was sold at the instigation of the Dittmer Real Estate Co. to obtain satisfaction of a judgment of $172.77 returned against Mrs. Gunn. This judgment still remains unpaid and, as a result of yesterday's action, becomes a lien on the property which Mrs. Gunn must pay off by Nov. 10 or another sale will be ordered. The value of the real estate at the time of the first sale was fixed at $3000, but the property was subject to three deeds of trust totaling $4000. It was sold to Bernard Fritzsche for $100. Mrs. Gunn contends that the value is now $6500 and the Dittmer Real Estate Co. places it at $3000.

Quadruplets in Group Were Born During War and Kings Were Sponsors.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—The "big family" prize of 25,000 francs has been awarded by the French Academy, at former Premier Poincaré's request, to Devouste Duverrier, whose family has been struggling against the high cost of living with ten small mouths to feed.

The children include quadruplets—two boys and two girls—born in the war, for whom Poincaré, who was then the President of France, King Albert of Belgium, King George of England, and the Emperor of Russia were godfathers and godmothers.

Poincaré induced the academy and a multimillionaire, who has given several such annual prizes, to waive the rules that limit the awards to families in which the parents are under forty years of age. Duverrier is 55.

FAMILY PRIZE GIVEN TO FATHER OF TEN CHILDREN

Quadruplets in Group Were Born During War and Kings Were Sponsors.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—The "big family" prize of 25,000 francs has been awarded by the French Academy, at former Premier Poincaré's request, to Devouste Dubreuil, whose family has been struggling against the high cost of living with ten small mouths to feed.

The children include quadruplets—two boys and two girls—born in the war, for whom Poincaré, who was then the President of France, King Albert of Belgium, King George of England, and the Emperor of Russia were godfathers and godmothers.

Poincaré induced the academy and a multimillionaire, who has given several score such annual prizes, to waive the rules that limit the awards to families in which the parents are under forty years of age. Dubreuil is 55.

MORE DAY TO CORRECT
REGISTRATION IN COUNTY
Voters Who Have Moved Since Registering Must Be Transferred.

Tomorrow will be the last day for voters of St. Louis County who registered in the wrong precinct by mistake, at the recent registration, or who have moved from one precinct to another since that registration, to have their names transferred to the proper precinct books. There was some registration in wrong precincts because of unfamiliarity with boundary lines. Transfers on the books may be obtained by application at the Election Board office, in the basement of the Clayton Courthouse. Voters who failed to register before cannot now be recorded.

TWO MEN KIDNAPED BY ROBBERS IN AUTO

Woman Reports She Was Tied in Basement by Men Who Ransacked Her Home.

Robbers, operating in automobiles, carried off their victims in two instances reported to the police yesterday, and, in a third, robbed a chauffeur of his taxicab, as well as collections. In another case a woman reported she was roped and tied in the basement of her home, while robbers leisurely ransacked it.

An abandoned automobile, found by Mounted Police at 5463 North Union boulevard, was traced to its owner, John Keller Jr., of 5643 Mimika avenue, who said he had reported the missing car to a county Deputy Sheriff. He related that Sunday evening he was seated in the car, waiting for a young woman in front of her home on Jennings road, when two men in a Ford drew up, and at the point of a revolver, forced him into the Ford. The young woman, a moment later, was similarly ordered into the car. The robbers, he said, drove away a short distance, robbed him of $5, then returned. One of the robbers, he said, then drove away in his car, the Ford following.

William Ebel of 4248 Junata street, a chauffeur for the Brown Taxicab Co., reported that he picked up three men fares at Union boulevard and North Market street, last night, with orders to drive them to 4900 Thekla avenue. There, they drew revolvers, robbed him of $6, and drove away in the taxicab. It was found abandoned at Warner and Natural Bridge avenues, today.

Three robbers in a Ford automobile halted Andrew Laskowitz, an insurance collector, of 2047A Obear avenue, at Ninth and Clinton streets yesterday afternoon, and at the point of revolvers, forced him into the car. They drove to Thirteenth and Chambers streets, where they robbed Laskowitz of $25 and ordered him out. Mrs. Maud Worthington of 919 Canaan avenue related to police about 9:30 a. m., as she was at work in the basement, a man entered, seized her and drew out a section of clothes line. A second intruder appeared a moment later and the two proceeded to tie her hands behind her, and then tied her to the basement steps, she said.

She heard them ransacking the house for about a half hour, when they departed. Her screams were heard by a woman neighbor across the street, who released her. She said $190 was taken from its hiding place on top of the piano and $6.95 from a purse kept in a dresser drawer.

If you could hire
half your washing
done for 3 1/3 cents

Where is the woman who wouldn't be overjoyed to get rid of half the work on wash-day for a sum as tiny as this? One-third of a package of La France dissolved with your soap, and two operations are cut from the washing. No rubbing—no bluing.

With La France, you just soak or boil the clothes, then rinse and wring, and the clothes are ready to dry. It blues as it cleans. And what a gloriously white and sweet-smelling wash!

Use it with any soap you like—bar, powder or flakes—in tubs or washing machine. All the sticky, greasy dirt that resists even the best of soap when used alone simply floats away when La France, too, is used. Buy La France from your grocer to-day. It is only 10 cents a package.

For ironing, use Satina. Add it to the hot starch, and your iron won't stick. Gives the clothes a lovelier gloss and imparts to them a delightful perfume. La France Manufacturing Company, Philadelphia.

La France blues as it cleans. Loosens every sticky, greasy particle of soil so it can be easily rinsed away. Use it with soap of any brand or kind.

Only 3 1/3 cents each wash-day for this wonderful product that does away with all the drudgery of washing. For boiler, tubs or washing machine.

SPEEDY TRIAL OF COLLINS ANNULMENT SUIT DENIED

Society Girl Who Married Peruvian Must Wait About Three Weeks for Case to Come Up.

An effort by attorneys for Miss Janet Lee Collins of 5 Hortense place to obtain a speedy hearing of her suit for annulment of her marriage a week ago to Jose Francisco Mariategui, secretary of the Peruvian legation at Rome, failed today.

The original suit was filed Thursday, but a new and duplicate one was filed yesterday for technical reasons, accompanied by an entry of appearance and waiver of service executed by Mariategui before a New York notary public. The plaintiff's counsel today asked Judge Hogan of the Court of Domestic Relations, to whom the case was assigned, to make a special setting, but the Judge refused. He said it would have to come up in about three weeks, in the regular course of the docket.

Mariategui left for New York within an hour or two after the marriage, following an interview with Miss Collins' father, W. D. Collins. The suit alleges that he induced Miss Collins to marry him by artifice and overpersuasion.

Chicago Judge Orders Them to Visit Hospital and Impose Fines.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Seven speeders who appeared before Municipal Judge Philip J. Finnegan yesterday were ordered by the Court to be taken through the Home for Destitute Crippled Children as a part of their punishment.

The autists who drove too fast were bundled into a patrol wagon and at the hospital were marched between the long white rows of cots, while Judge Finnegan lectured them on the results of speeding. Brought back into court, the Judge assessed fines of from $4 to $5 and costs. Caplases were issued for several speeders who failed to appear in court, and two men were sent to jail by Judges in the speeders' section of court yesterday.

Kellogg's Bran did more in two weeks than medicine taken in 20 years

Out of regard for your own health, read this letter:

Gentlemen: Your "Krumbled Bran," used by me as a cereal, has done more for me in two weeks than the hundreds of dollars' worth of medicine I have taken in last twenty years for constipation. It is wonderful, and it is so simple.

Years truly, Arlington H. Carman, Patchogue, N. Y.

Kellogg's Bran STIMULATES the intestines. It cleans, sweeps and purifies them. It acts exactly as nature acts. And it is never necessary to increase the amount eaten. If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran is guaranteed to bring permanent relief to the most chronic cases of constipation, or your grocer returns your money. For Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran. Nothing but ALL bran can be so effective. That is why doctors recommend Kellogg's.

The wonderful, nut-like flavor of Kellogg's Bran is exclusive. It is delicious—totally unlike ordinary bran. Eat two tablespoons daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Eat it with milk or cream and in the recipes on every package. Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is made in Battle Creek. Sold by all grocers.

MARVELOUS Mighty Healing Power

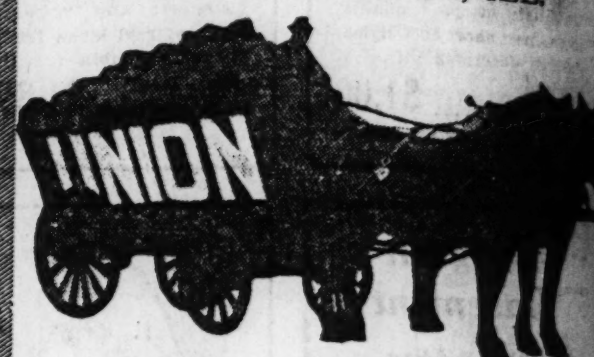

"I wish I could publish all the grateful letters I get every week," says Peterson. "I don't believe anyone on this earth has such a happy time at work as I have. All I do is make Peterson's Ointment and read letters like these that come right from the heart."

"I had an ulcer on my ankle—had it 30 years and could not get it healed. For the last six years I had several doctors. I got one box of your ointment and it almost healed it and it was entirely healed before I had used the second one. I don't think there is a better remedy on earth." Mrs. J. C. Henderson, 650 Sprague Street, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Peterson's Ointment is just as good for piles as it is for old sores. It stops itching of eczema almost instantly. There isn't anything in the way of pimples or face blemishes that it won't chase away, and for sore feet, chafing, sunburn, scalds, cuts and bruises there is nothing nearly as speedy. 35 cents.

The fight against Pyorrhea is a fight against overwhelming odds. Statistics prove that four out of every five over 40—and thousands younger—lose their teeth to the dreaded toll. Will you?

Be on your guard
for signs of Pyorrhea

Just as the stability of a building is dependent upon its foundations, so healthy depend upon healthy gums. Bleeding gums are the first sign of rhea's approach. Then they begin to bleed. The healthy pink color gives place to a pale, whitish tint. Soon the teeth loosen, pus pockets form and drain poisons through the system, often of indigestion, rheumatism, neuritis and of the other diseases of mid-life.

Let Forhan's help you

Forhan's For the Gums is a most effective agent in the fight against this insidious disease. It contains just the right proportion of Forhan's Astringent (as used by dental profession) to neutralize oral poisons, keep the gums in a firm, strong condition. Also, it cleans and whitens teeth and keeps the mouth sweet, clean, wholesome. Even if you don't care to continue your favorite dentifrice, start using Forhan's once a day. FRENCH BALLOON SEIZED
BY GERMAN AUTHORITIES

Paris Papers Print Story That Bag,
Which Landed Near Emden,
Was Taken With Contents.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—A story recounting the alleged confiscation
by the German authorities of a French balloon, which landed near Emden, is printed in this afternoon's newspapers. The balloon, participating in a competition, left St. Cloud Oct. 11. When it was forced to descend upon German soil, the pilot received every attention and aid from the authorities and was invited to lunch by the Mayor of the city, but he was detained for two days, pending instructions from Berlin. When these came they ordered that the pilot be released, but that the balloon, with its instruments, maps and all of its material, be confiscated.

The newspapers point out that the French balloon was confiscated at a moment when the German Zeppelin ZR-3 was flying over France with the authorization of the French Government.

Canada today, five men who took part in the $140,000 robbery of messengers of the Bank of Hoche-laga, last April, killing the driver, must hang Friday for the crime.

Hearing of the appeal of Leo Davis, the sixth man convicted to hang, is still in progress.

The five men who lost in their final fight to save themselves from the noose are Tony Frank, Louis
Morel, Mike Valentine, Giuseppe Serafini and Frank Gambino. They appealed for a writ of habeas corpus, on the ground that the judge before whom they were tried was without jurisdiction.

Lived Alone.

The body of Davis Hall, 62 years old, a bridge carpenter, was found in bed in his home on Mary avenue in Luxembourg, St. Louis County, by workmen who went to his home
when he did not appear for work today. He was shot through the right temple and a revolver, with one chamber discharged, was found at his side. Neighbors told Coroner Bracy that Hall had been in poor health. Hall had been dead several hours, Coroner Bracy said. He had lived alone.

The Pulse
of the Public
by Shirley Seams

There is a daily thrill in being behind the scenes of a Shop that serves the public. Its success is dependent upon anticipating the public's needs and having new things in readiness before they are needed. This requires not only merchan-
dis and style expertise,
but almost an intuitive
sense of feeling the public pulse.

I cannot think of anything that is more intensely interesting than seeing a great event planned, watching freight elevators busy for days carrying up express boxes of merchandise
arriving from New York;
seeing the hustle and bustle
in stock rooms as luxurious garments are taken from their tissue paper wrappings; of seeing a whole force of willing workers prepare the display "after hours" that is to greet the public early on the morning of a great sale. Such a Sale is—

—now in progress. And the excitement of seeing it through all the stages of preparation was as nothing compared to the excitement of seeing the eager throngs of customers whose purchases showed their appreciation of the wonderful values. It is hoped that the quantity will last throughout the week; yet I should advise those who have not yet made selection to hurry down while there are still hundreds to choose from.

VOTE FOR LA FOLLETTE 'FUTILE GESTURE,' CUMMINGS SAYS

Former Democratic Chairman Asserts Coolidge or Davis Will Be Next President.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 21.—Without "intention of being disrespectful," Homer Cummings, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, "laid aside" the candidacy of Senator La Follette for the presidency, in a campaign address here last night. He predicted that the next President of the United States would be either "Mr. Coolidge" or "Mr. Davis, whether the election should be decided in the usual way or whether the choice is referred, under the Constitution, to Congress. Most citizens will desire to cast not only a conscience vote, but an effective vote," he said.

A vote in favor of the candidacy of La Follette, Cummings stated, "is necessarily but a futile gesture, persuasive as his appeal may be" to many citizens dissatisfied with the course of public events and suspicious of politicians and political parties in general. Holding that the rank and file of the Republican party are not responsible for "certain happenings" in that party, Cummings charged them with "responsibility" if, in the light of events, they continue that leadership.

How does your hair look an hour after you've brushed it? All out of place—mussed—every which way? Only a hint of its trimness left?

That used to be the daily experience of most men.

For then there was no quick, effective way to keep the hair always in place, looking at all times just as you want it to look. Old-fashioned pomades matted the hair and made it greasy. Water evaporated quickly and left the hair drier and harder to control than ever.

STOCK DEALS OF GOULD IN NAME OF NEGRO PORTER

Edwin Testifies in $82-000,000 Suit to Making Transfers to Employees to Hide His Identity.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch—
NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Edwin Gould, one of the trustees of the $82,000,000 estate of his father,
Jay Gould, testified before Referee
James A. O'Gorman yesterday that he had frequently transferred large blocks of stocks to J. C. Berry, a negro porter, formerly in his employ, so his own name would not appear in various transactions.
During the panic of 1907, he said, he had to borrow large sums of money, obtaining as high as $500,000 from one company, and that the year following he was eager to sell out securities held by him to clear up his debts.
The examination of Gould took up the entire day, Samuel Seabury of counsel for Frank J. Gould conducting the interrogation of the witness.
The affairs of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, which was the chief line in the Gould system, bulked large in the day's proceedings. Under the terms of Jay Gould's will,
his eldest son, the late George J.
Gould, was left in virtual control of the roads owned or controlled by the Jay Gould estate. It was George J.'s alleged mismanagement that led his brother, Frank J., to move for his removal and ask that his estate be held liable for losses estimated in excess of $20,000,000.
$3,500,000 of Bonds to Rockefeller.
Edwin Gould testified he was out of town and knew nothing at the time of the purchase by the estate in 1910 of $5,500,000 worth of Missouri Pacific 5 per cent gold refunding bonds.
The bond issue in question, he explained, totaled more than $20-000,000 and was issued through the Kuhn-Loeb syndicate, of which his brother, George, was a member.
George, he said, had personally pledged himself to take $10,000,000 of the issue and induce him to subscribe for $1,000,000 of this amount, while their sister, Helen—
Mrs. Finley J. Shepard—subscribed for a small amount.
Subsequently, he testified, George unloaded $3,500,000 of his subscription on John D. Rockefeller and turned the remaining $5,500,000
over to the Jay Gould estate.
Accepted Syndicate Profit.
Edwin said the purchase of the $5,500,000 worth of bonds by the estate was made by George and Helen. Asked if he approved of the purchase by the estate when he learned about it, he replied he had not at the time, but hastened to add that he had not criticized George and Helen for following out his father's plan of development for the Missouri Pacific.
"Don't think I ever reproached them or that I ever will,"
he said.
He admitted that the purchase of the bonds of his father's estate had left no hazard to himself or to George, as underwriters of the bond issue, and he admitted that George had received a commission of $118,000 on the transactions and that his own commission on the $1,000,000
of his participation had amounted to $24,000.
Although the action of his brother in unloading the entire $10,000,000 on Rockefeller and the Jay Gould estate made it unnecessary for George or Edwin to put up a single dollar, he said he hadn't considered it improper for his brother and himself to accept and retain a syndicate profit.
He defended the purchase by the estate of stock of the Denver & Rio Grande. The stock of this road turned over to the estate, he said, was part of a large block bought by George J. Gould individually.
Transfers to His Secretary.
Seabury then sought to show that Edwin Gould had owned 5200 shares of Missouri Pacific stock in March, 1908, and had decided then to get rid of his holdings. He produced a broker's statement showing that Edwin had $300 cash in March, 1908, but had disposed of all by the following November. Edwin Gould insisted the transfers entered in the brokerage account represented transfers and did not denote sales. In support of his argument he pointed out an entry showing the transfer of 2100 shares

to J. C. Berry in April, 1908. Berry, he explained, had been his negro porter. He said he was "absolutely sure" Berry had not bought the stock and that he had not made him a gift of it.

Auto Kills Scientist's Wife.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The body of a woman who was killed last night after being run down by an automobile here later was identified by Dr. Roy W. Miner, doctor of philosophy and science at the Museum of Natural History, as that of his wife. The automobilist escaped.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 21.—Thirty years' experience in rounding up cattle in the wildest section of Arizona is the basis of confidence on the part of George McCormick that he can drive a herd of 5000 to 8000 deer from the north rim of Grand Canyon, down into depth where the deer will swim the river and then up the precipitous wall of the south rim. McCormick punched cattle in days when deer were numerous in Tusayan national forest and when deer frequently mixed with cattle and were driven with them from range to range by the cowboys.

Cowpuncher to Drive 5000 Deer Down Steep Side of Grand Canyon

Animals Will Be Taken From Herd in Kaibab Forest in Utah to Game Preserve in Arizona.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 21.—Thirty years' experience in rounding up cattle in the wildest section of Arizona is the basis of confidence on the part of George McCormick that he can drive a herd of 5000 to 8000 deer from the north rim of Grand Canyon, down into depth where the deer will swim the river and then up the precipitous wall of the south rim. McCormick punched cattle in days when deer were numerous in Tusayan national forest and when deer frequently mixed with cattle and were driven with them from range to range by the cowboys.

When the Forest Service this fall proposed to open up former President Roosevelt's pet game refuge, the Kaibab forest to hunters and cause a slaughter of 15,000 deer in order to reduce their numbers on the range, McCormick and other Northern Arizona sportsmen conceived the idea of restocking with deer the great forest regions of Arizona south of the canyon. McCormick proposed to build great corrals about a few water holes on winter range of deer and trap them.

On Bright Angel Trail. More than 50 cowboys and sportsmen will border the trail down which McCormick proposes to drive deer to prevent their scattering. He believes that once the deer are forced on the narrow trail that leads from the north rim of the canyon to the Colorado River more than one mile below, he will have no difficulty in driving them. In ascending the south wall of the canyon, the deer will travel the Bright Angel trail known to thousands of tourists. In many places this trail is only two feet wide, a wall of sandstone on one side and a straight drop of a thousand feet on the other.

The river, more than 200 feet wide at this point of the Grand Canyon, must be crossed by the deer. McCormick believes that the animals will swim the river. He proposes to make the crossing between Dec. 1 and Jan. 1 when the river is at the lowest stage; and, due to fact that the greatest drought in years has lowered the volume of the river, he believes the deer will have to swim less than 50 feet at that time of the year.

Contract Signed. Gov. Hunt Saturday signed the contract with McCormick for delivery of the deer to the south rim, from which point they will be distributed to the forests south of the canyon. The Governor guarantees the payment to McCormick of $2.50 a head, for each deer delivered, and will pay the bill himself if the Legislature refuses to make payment.

State Game Warden G. M. Willard, a pioneer cattleman, brands the attempt as foolish and impossible, while cowboys of Northern Arizona who in years past worked on the northern ranges, declare that deer may be driven far more easily than cattle. The attempt will be the greatest test of the art of the cowboy ever seen in the West. Already McCormick has received offers of the free services of the most famous cowpunchers of Southern Utah and Northern Arizona to aid him in the spectacular feat.

AMERICAN BANKERS TO AID IN LOAN TO SOVIET RUSSIA

Moscow Parliament Informed English and U. S. Interests Have Agreed to Credit Advances.

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, Oct. 21.—The Soviet Russian Commissar for Finance, M. Sokolnikov, announced today before the all-Russian Parliament, now in session in the Kremlin, that despite the fall of the British Labor Government, English bankers, with the support of certain American financial institutions, had agreed to advance Soviet Russia extensive commercial credits.

He did not mention the specific amount of these advances, confining himself to a general statement that Russia had concluded negotiations for a loan from abroad in the form of a credit to the Russian state bank of "several tens of millions of rubles."

FINED AFTER FOURTH ARREST FOR ABUSING HIS MOTHER

Four times within the last six months August Rathert, 39 years old, of 3242 Missouri avenue, has been brought into court charged with abusing his 62-year-old mother, Elizabeth Rathert. Three of the times, Mrs. Rathert refused to prosecute him, because, despite his 39 years and his undutiful behavior, he was still "her boy" and when he promised to behave she just couldn't say the word that would send him to jail.

Last Saturday, her patience reached the breaking point, when August came home—drunk and abusive. She fled for a policeman who had to break down a locked door before he could arrest Rathert. Yesterday the mother appeared in Police Court against her son, and unforgivingly saw him fined $100—which means he will spend 34 days in the Workhouse.

La Follette Answers Critics on Supreme Court Issue and Outlines Railroad Program

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP IS A QUESTION FOR THE FUTURE; OTHER LEGISLATION PRESSING

Senator, in Omaha Speech, Says Railroads Do Not Care Much Who Is Elected, Coolidge or Davis—Tells of Propaganda.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
Washington Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 21.—In perhaps the most important speech of his campaign Senator La Follette last night outlined his position on two outstanding issues: The Supreme Court and the railroad program. The following are the substance of his remarks, which were given in a speech before a large audience at the Omaha auditorium, as well as from several hundred others who listened outside through amplifiers. meant by aggregate value. They did not explain, because if they had told the truth they would have been compelled to admit that aggregate value included all the water that had been poured into their capitalization during 50 years of financial juggling.

La Follette was the author of a bill passed in 1915, which instructed the Interstate Commerce Commission to ascertain the actual value of all railroad property, that value to be used as a permanent basis for a rate finding.

"The work," he declared, "has never been completed, so that rates still are based on the property valuation taken from the railroad books. Moreover, the original meaning and intention of the law has been perverted, so that the work is now proceeding on the theory that the valuation should be based on the replacement cost of the roads, rather than on the amount of money actually and prudently invested in them."

He warned the voters to keep a watchful eye upon the progress of this work and upon its result. "The railroad," he said, "are quietly contending with the commission for a valuation which will be at least $10,000,000,000 in excess of the actual prudent investment. If they succeed it will mean at least $500,000,000 a year to American consumers in increased freight and passenger rates."

"The present figure of $18,900,000,000, tentatively accepted by the commission as a valuation upon which to base rates, is substantially the figure claimed by the roads and yet in January, 1922, the market value of all the railroad properties was only $10,600,000,000. Their stock, however, could have been purchased in the open market for that amount. Hence the American people are paying a return on $8,000,000,000 of inflation value. Do you wonder that the cost of living is high? You pay freight on every stick of clothes you wear, on virtually all the food that you eat, on all the brick and lumber that goes into the house in which you live."

Water in Railway Stock.
"Taking a slightly different aspect of the subject," he continued, "from the beginning, railroad stock generally has represented nothing but water. A large part of it was given for nothing as a bonus when the bonds were sold. Prior to 1907, more than two-thirds of the outstanding stock of the Buffalo and New York Central was water. The stock dealers know this. That is why the stock was worth only 46 per cent of its par value on the Stock Exchange in 1922."

"This means that the roads actually are earning 10 or 17 per cent on their real investment. As a matter of fact, some of them are earning far more."

He quoted from the Wall Street Journal to show that in 1923 the Michigan Central earned $75 a share, the Buffalo and New York Central nearly $20 a share, and the Erie and Susquehanna, $23 a share. "Such earnings were made possible," he asserted, "through 'trick groupings' under the Esch-Cummins law."

"This practice," he said, "strongly increases the value of weak ones, and the rates are based on the profits earned by the whole group."

"Thus the strong New York Central is lumped with the Erie and other roads that have been so looted and mismanaged that they could not earn a profit on their watered stock, even if the rates were doubled. Yet the New York Central is allowed to charge a rate based in part upon the poverty of the weak sisters in the same group."

The rate increase made under the law amounted to a total of $1,500,000,000, and La Follette quoted Walker D. Hines, former director-general of railroads under Government operation, as authority for the statement that the rate increase, by the time it reaches the consumer, has been multiplied three to five times, because each middleman adds the freight increase to his price, and then charges an added percentage profit. Hence he calculated that the increase cost the consumers at least $4,500,000,000.

Millions in Propaganda.
"The railroad," he said, "have spent millions of dollars in propaganda to convince the American people that this huge increase in freight charges was due to wage increases paid to railroad employees. It is true that the Railroad Labor Board did award the employees a wage increase just before this rate increase was put into effect, but the wage increase amounted to $54,000,000. The rate increase was a billion and a half, nearly a billion dollars greater than the wage increase."

real investment. That is all that can honestly be asked, all that the railroads are entitled to, and all that they will receive at the hands of a Progressive administration.

For Howell-Barkley Bill.
"The Progressives also declare for the immediate enactment of the Howell-Barkley bill, abolishing the Railroad Labor Board and re-establishing substantially the same machinery of mediation and conciliation that proved so successful prior to the war."

"The Railroad Labor Board is an admitted failure. It is denounced by the employes, by management and by the public. It is primarily responsible for the most costly strike that has ever occurred upon the railroads. It should be wiped out."

In closing, he told the audience that he was turning east from Omaha with the conviction that the West had been won for the Progressive ticket, and that a tide of opinion was coming in from the East that would give the ticket a majority at the polls in November.

Mentioning that he had made some speeches in New York and Pennsylvania, he said: "The West is already ours. We are going back to take the East." The Senator speaks tonight in Rock Island, Ill., and the following night in Peoria.

DEMOCRATS AND THIRD PARTY
IN CONSPIRACY, BUTLER SAYS
G. O. E. Chairman Cites Alleged Combination Between Two in Congressional Districts.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Chairman William M. Butler of the Republican National Committee issued a statement yesterday attacking what he termed a combination on the part of Democrats and Independents to force the presidential election into Congress.

After charging that "there exists in certain sections of the country a conspiracy to deprive the people of the right to select their own President," the statement said: "The Democratic presidential nominee at Nashville, Tenn., Sunday made the bold claim that the third party candidate will carry six or eight states. He does not name them, but he knows them. He is interested in such a contingency."

"Take Minnesota, for example," the statement continued. "There Mr. John Lind, for many years the leader of the Democratic party in the Northwest, is a Republican Congressman and then Governor on the Democratic ticket and later named a special envoy to Mexico under a Democratic administration. Has come out for the third party nominee, Mr. Schuyler, and has been a member of the National Democratic committee."

In Idaho there has been an unholy alliance in one of the two congressional districts. In the four Colorado districts, in six districts in Kansas, four in Nebraska, and in more than half a dozen districts in Ohio, the combination of Democrats and Independents is being formed, and this is true to an even greater extent in Indiana. From all parts of the country come reports of similar combinations. They are designed to elect a third party candidate, and the Democrats are to be forced into Congress."

AMERICAN CHOSEN LEAGUE AID TO HANDLE MANDATES
By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, Oct. 21.—A new American interest has been given to the League of Nations' handling of the system of mandates and Turkish colonies, by the appointment of Huntington Gilchrist of Auburn, N. Y., an assistant director of the mandate section of the League secretariat.

Prof. William Rappard of Switzerland, who has been director of this section and who was formerly professor of economics at Harvard University, will retire to become vice rector of the University of Geneva. V. Catafina of Italy will become the director, with Gilchrist as assistant. The latter has been associated with the League since 1920, and has been supervising questions such as those of Danzig and the Saar Valley. Gilchrist is expected to take over his new post in December.

The American interests in mandated territories which developed with American treaties with the mandated powers, guaranteeing the United States equality of treatment, was originally planned to give an American a leading position in mandate administration. In 1919, George L. Beer of New York was appointed head of the mandate section, but Beer, before he was able to take up his duties.

The Mandate Commission will meet Thursday at Geneva to report conditions of the Pacific Islands mandates to Japan, Australia and New Zealand. The Commission also will look into the British mandate over Palestine and the mandate of the French over Syria and Liban.

DAVIS SAYS NATION NEEDS SANE LIBERALISM

Tells Tennessee Audience This, and Not Reaction, Is Way to Prevent Radicalism.

By CHARLES MICHELSON,
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

MANDAN, N. D., Oct. 21.—On the whole the La Follette campaign in the West is a disappointment. Many carry California and Washington and with them the butress states to the immediate eastward; but one comes out of those states with a feeling that an opportunity has been neglected, that a job has been left half finished and too much dependence has been placed on destiny or political gravitation or whatever else it is that is supposed to keep a candidacy on the Pacific shore, and bring it to its destination, once it has started.

This observer, at least, thinks that the La Follette movement in the Far West will fall just short of success. The impetus of his disciples may overcome the advantage of the Republicans' settled organization and established majority and give him the 20 electoral votes of the two big Pacific Coast states, but that outcome is a long shot.

The more probable result is that he will run an astonishingly good second. Moreover, it is not unlikely that in South Dakota, Nevada, Idaho and Utah, where the Progressive party has been a curiosity of political history, but its permanent effect will be negligible.

After all, his importance as a political factor comes down to the question of defeating Mr. Coolidge. If he does this he will have shown strength that must attract commanding support. If he does not he goes into the record as one more political aspirant who could not make the grade.

He has been a failure, according to the depth of the scars he has left on the Republican party. It was not Theodore Roosevelt's popular vote in 1912 that made it certain that had he lived he would have been the Republican nominee in 1920, but the fact that he got 88 electoral votes.

His Opportunity at Start.
There was not a State west of the Mississippi and north of Kansas in which La Follette did not have at least one supporter. When the campaign opened, eighteen states with an aggregate of 120 electoral votes were his if he could keep alive the enthusiasm of his followers, and by his personal presence and personal effort lift them up the last short step on which so many of these movements break down.

Now, with two weeks of the campaign yet to go, one-third of these states have slipped entirely, and of the remainder his opinion is not more than two has he better than an even chance to win. For that remainder La Follette has Wheeler to thank, for the vice presidential candidate has whirled around the circle tirelessly. But an evangelical political crusade cannot be conducted by proxy.

The Progressive platform is perforce vague. It had to be to embrace the divergent and various things that one multitude was protesting against and another set that a second multitude was clamoring for. Wheeler could point out the inequities, the failures of the existing system, the scandals of the Republican regime and the fatality of Democratic promises; but it required the master hand of the chief magician to build up the affirmative structure.

It makes no difference whether La Follette is a real seer or not. Every prophet is a pretender and a mountebank to the Philistine, but to his followers the leader of a popular uprising must present some of the attributes of omniscience to justify their faith. Disciples wait for Messiah. There they were, still are for that matter, as stalwart, faithful, unquestioning an army as ever gazed into the east for the coming of Messiah, and Lord, how patently they have waited for a sign.

I understand Senator La Follette had big, enthusiastic crowds wherever he spoke in the East, but what could a New York, Boston or Chicago audience do for him? The Senator has been a political figure too long to have any delusions as to the possibility of stampeding New York or New England by his eloquence or the righteousness of his cause. The time and money and effort of these gatherings expended in the mountains, on the prairies and on the Pacific shore, would have brought real political dividends. Had he felt it necessary to put a capstone on his campaign by a dash into enemy country, that could have been done, and he could have won down the line the impressiveness out of the background of half the country affairs, as he could have had it.

To get down to concrete things, he could have burned up the undergrowth of factionalism, the result in two conflicting electoral tickets in Montana, and jeopardized a certainty of carrying that State. In California he might have engendered such fervor that the followers who hesitate about voting for him under the Socialist emblem, would have been swept into the spirit that would make this seem like the sentimental capriciousness and treachery to a great cause.

What Might Have Been.
If he had campaigned in Minnesota as he can campaign, there would have been none so foolish as to dream of anything other than a remote chance to take that State away from him, and in Washington the few thousand votes that are likely to put him second would have been forthcoming if he were there to ask for them.

These are some of the particular gaps and lacks La Follette leaders pointed out to me in the various States within the last two weeks. As to why their chief did not see the situation as they saw it, they cannot understand.

It has been hazarded that a doubt of his capacity to stand the strain of such a campaign may be the reason, though no word came of any unexpected illness or weakness. Another theory was that he feared that if he came to his own country he could not avoid being tangled up in local fights among candidates eager to ride into office on his chariot.

His political foes have not been hesitant about expressing their view that the lure of the big crowds and the big newspaper display was the controlling impulse, as if he were an actor better satisfied to play small parts on Broadway than to star in stock at South Bend.

Whatever the reason, the fact itself has caused a lot of heart-burning out there, and if the La Follette campaign flounders in the end it will be attributed to the candidate's inability to tear himself away from the East.

Of course, the campaign is not yet over. La Follette may yet attempt a belated coast tour, but as one of his captains in the Far West put it: "He has set so many dates and broken so many that I don't know if it makes any difference now whether he comes or not."

FINANCIAL CRISIS IN PERSIA
Standard Loan Falls Through and Budget Is Not Balanced.
By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, Oct. 21.—Persia is experiencing a financial crisis, says M. Shoumatsky, Soviet Minister to Persia, who at present is in Moscow. The American financial advisers, he declared, have failed to balance Persia's budget and the projected loan of $10,000,000 by the Standard Company in return for oil concessions in Northern Persia has fallen through.

According to M. Shoumatsky, an attempt was made recently on the borders of Soviet Turkestan to incite the natives to insurrection, but the movement was successfully suppressed.

Young English was presented by United States Commissioner H. E. Frisvold. He is a graduate of the University of Illinois and of the Harvard Law School.

La Follette in Action.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

SENATOR LA FOLLETTE'S meeting at the Coliseum, St. Louis, on Oct. 14, was remarkably well staged. The motion picture show of American heroes and their notable statements on Government, before the speaking, was admirably calculated to appeal to people of all parties, and to warm up the audience for the speaker. Had the band co-operated with the motion picture machine, played patriotic airs, the effect would have been tremendous for an accomplished orator. It was a rare reason in the technique of staging a political meeting. Mr. R. J. Wood, president of the Missouri Federation of Labor, made a most impressive speaker and temporary chairman.

Judging from the applause and attitude of the spectators, one-third of them were for La Follette, two-thirds were present apparently through curiosity. Philip La Follette seemed to be physically, vocally and mentally unequal to his subject, "that government in the United States has not been with the consent of the governed." The Republican party must answer for many crimes, but its 7,000,000 majority in 1920 does not indicate that it has ruled without the consent of the governed. Philip La Follette's premise, upon which he based the entire Progressive campaign, seems to be wholly without basis in fact, hence untenable.

Asking auditors to donate $500, $100, $50 or $10 to the La Follette campaign fund was, obviously, a mistake. When a man has $10 or more to donate to a campaign fund, he becomes, ipso facto, a "corrupt Republican."

Senator La Follette made an unfavorable impression upon me. He gave evidence of senility, was querulous, impatient, fumed and fussed with his hands and tongue, permitted himself to be deflected by petty interruptions. He made the mistake of addressing his radio audience, instead of his local audience. He appealed, by radio, to the farmer vote, advocated reduction of railroad rates and manufacturing costs before a metropolitan audience of railroad and factory employees. His statement of ancient alleged policies was tedious. His statements on causes of American participation in the Great War were ex-parte, obviously offensive to facts, and made to pro-German votes. In all, Mr. La Follette did not give me any reason for voting for him. In physics, physiology, that sphere is, evidently, not higher politics. By exhibiting himself and speaking to the people, Mr. La Follette is not getting himself any votes.

The Digest Straw Vote.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

YOUR editorial of today on the Literary Digest poll reminds me of something that you may not be aware of.

I have learned from several sources that incorporated concerns have received ballots. Possibly you have information available that will tell you how many corporations there are in the country. It is possible that votes from these corporations alone may account for Coolidge's lead, as invariably corporations are Republican controlled. Thanks be, this is the only vote they get.

KLAN CHARGE AGAINST NELSON.

The whispering campaign of the Republicans against Dr. Arthur W. Nelson, Democratic candidate for Governor, accusing him of being, or having been, a member of the Ku Klux Klan, has culminated in an open charge. The Globe-Democrat has issued a statement from Chairman Phares of the Republican State Central Committee, charging that Dr. Nelson had joined the Klan, supported by affidavits of three men. One charges that he was initiated into the Klan at California, Mo. Two others charge that they saw on the books of the Klan at Tipton, Mo., the name "A. W. Nelson, Buncheon," with the word "de-mitted" after it.

We do not know the parlance of the Klan. But to demit means to give up, lay down or resign, and comes from a Latin word meaning to release or dismiss. It takes a wizard or a cyclops or a klieg to interpret the meaning of the alleged entry.

The Globe-Democrat prints the statement of Chairman Phares and the affidavits without giving Dr. Nelson a hearing, and without any reply from him. He is entitled to a full hearing and to a thorough investigation before judgment is passed upon his alleged relation to the Klan or his own statement that he was not and never had been a member of the Klan.

The Post-Dispatch accepted Dr. Nelson's statement, repeated during the primary and after his nomination, that he had never had any connection with the Klan, and his adoption of the unequivocal language of John W. Davis, embodied in the Democratic platform, as his own, with reference to the repudiation of the Klan.

This charge raises two questions: The question of his membership in the Klan at any time, and the question of veracity. He must answer the charge. He must do all in his power to clarify his record. We realize that it is a difficult charge to answer, on account of the secret character of the Klan and its extraordinary code of ethics and methods of procedure. We shall reserve judgment on both questions until he has been heard and an investigation offers solid ground upon which a judgment may be based.

The hostile source of the charge must be considered. The character of the men making the charge must be fully known and judged before their word can be set up as conclusive against the word of a man like Dr. Nelson. Their violation of their oaths as Klansmen to injure Dr. Nelson militates against the truth of their charges. The facts must be fully exposed. The judgment must be fair, but there can be no compromise on the question of where he stands.

As the Post-Dispatch has repeatedly said, it will not support any candidate who has any relation with the Ku Klux Klan or who does not repudiate it.

PANIC AT THE CITY HALL.

The joke seems to be on the Board of Aldermen. That board passed an ordinance recently to improve the quality of social service in city institutions. But when it was found out that the bill would work as intended Alderman Uhlemeyer in a panic prepared a repeal bill to reverse the former action of the board. Only the announcement of the Mayor, with 50 representatives of religious and charitable institutions at his back, that he would veto the repeal stayed the progress of the repeal and caused it to be filed.

The objection to the original bill was that it established a standard of qualifications that would have caused five present employees to lose their jobs. The Aldermen, with the approval of the Mayor, are now looking for a way to preserve the efficiency ordinance and at the same time save the employees whom it proscribes.

Certainly not all the points are on the side of those who can get diplomas and pass examinations. There is no school like experience. And it seems no more than fair that rules should be relaxed for competent incumbents, if such there be. A fair rule would seem to be that incompetent incumbents should be discharged and all successors of present staff members be required to meet the standards of the new ordinance. Such consideration should not let down the bars to political favoritism. It is not a new method to make new laws apply to future cases and relax rules for incumbents where service is satisfactory.

Efficiency can be applied with charity and common sense. Office holders should be employed for the jobs; the jobs should not be for the office holders.

PRESBYTERIAN PEANUTS IN CHINA.

Missionaries in foreign lands sometimes build better than they know. Just now comes out of China a piece of news that puts commercial romance into religion. The peanut, introduced from America about 35 years ago by missionaries, is said to enter into China's foreign commerce to the extent of millions of dollars annually. It is an engaging story.

The Rev. Dr. Charles R. Mills, it appears, was working under auspices of the American Presbyterian Mission, was presented by a brother clergyman with two quart of goobers from the Sunny South. Dr. Mills divided his gift with two of the native members of his church, stipulating that the peanuts be planted and after three seasons the product be distributed to other Chinese farmers for similar use.

Evidently the natives liked our illustrious goober, for at the end of the first year it was discovered that one of the farmers had grown a sizable crop and eaten all of it. However, the peanuts were faithful to his trust, and now the surplus of peanuts for export to the Chinese growers a comfortably large total of cash.

Many years ago the British introduced into China a little plant known as the poppy. Not long ago the Chinese Government outlawed the poppy, which was of the opium-bearing variety and was, if not actually putting them to sleep, preventing most of the members of the Mongolian race from waking up to modern ideas. By introducing the innocuous and palatable peanut, one American missionary seems to have started something that works in exactly the opposite direction from that taken by the dope plant. That is one form of "penetration" in which America has proved superior to Great Britain. The Presbyterian peanut in China now takes care of itself.

G. O. P. POLITICS AND THE VETERANS.

Fifteen leaders of the American legion, including former Commander Owsley and Bennett Clark of St. Louis, one of the founders of the organization, have joined in a statement outlining what appears to us the only logical position for veterans of the war to take.

"For the first time in the history of our republic," says the statement, "men were found low enough to rob the wounded." The reference, of course, is to the Veterans' Bureau scandals under the Republican administration. "Investigators have estimated that one-third of the money appropriated has been stolen by grafting politicians or wasted by incompetent officeholders." The present director of the Veterans' Bureau "is accused by leaders of his own party and by nonpartisan veterans' organizations, of keeping incompetent department chiefs in power." These conditions, it is observed, "in a bureau dealing with the very lives of disabled soldiers are intolerable and unforgivable."

Attention is called to the fact that Secretary of the Treasury Carter Glass in 1919 urged the appropriation of $80,000,000 to build permanent hospitals, but that "Republican obstructionists refused to allow one dollar for this work until Republican politicians took office in 1921 and could pass out hospitals as political patronage." Misourians know only too well the truth of this, as instances by the famous "Kitchenless" hospital at Excelsior Springs, Mo., of which Liv Morse was the beneficiary.

But soldier welfare is not the whole question. Why did the soldiers fight, and why did they make their sacrifices? On this subject it is stated that "the one way in which the obligations to veterans of the war, dead and living, can be paid is by bringing about a realization of the war purposes and peace ideals for which the fallen heroes gave their lives." Only one national party, it is declared, is pledged to "a definite, courageous and upright foreign policy; only one candidate for the presidency is committed to such an accomplishment—John W. Davis—whose election is urged."

Here are the facts and the reasoning of the political problem of the war veterans. Who can gainsay them? Who will defend the administration's treatment of the veterans? Who will claim that the purpose of "the war to end war" has been protected or advanced by the Harding-Coolidge-Hughes policy? From beginning to end the veterans of the World War have been victimized by Republican politics. It is time for the veterans to get into politics.

The cost of living has gone up another step. In one respect it looks like a Republican year.

WITH PROTECTION IN FULL BLOOM.

The Ameskeag Co. of Boston, the largest cotton manufacturing concern in the world, has just passed a quarterly dividend, with a report, described by its treasurer, as "the poorest in the history of the company." That the whole textile industry is in a bad way, comparable, indeed, to the agricultural blight, is well known. And this notwithstanding the cotton and woolen tariff schedules rise impudently above any former duties.

If such a depression occurred during a Democratic administration everybody knows it would be gloatingly exploited and the solution offered would be Republican protection. But here is an instance of an industry in dire distress, with all the poverty and tragedy of unemployment, while under the aegis of protection in full bloom.

No community of political interest has as yet developed between the New England cotton mills and the Western farms, but their economic partnership and interdependence is a fact and their political fusion is only a question of time. For the Republican party the meaning of the present situation is clear. That party must learn to think and plan in the economic terms of the twentieth century. The mumbo-jumbo of the old tariff school is a dead language.

The G. O. P., says Frank Walsh, has 10 sources of campaign funds. And undoubtedly two more can spring up for every one that is cut off.

SUPREME COURT PROTECTS LABOR.

The decision of the United States Supreme Court, just published, to the effect that striking workers do not, by going out on strike, cease to be employees, and that, when enjoined by a court they are entitled, under the Clayton act, to a trial by jury, is a notable instance of the exercise of power by our highest court for the protection of the people against encroachments on their rights by the judiciary.

It will be noted that the railroad shophmen, suffering under an injunction during the strike in 1922, and denied trial by jury, were threatened with punishment for contempt. And it was two lower courts, the Federal District Court for Western Wisconsin and the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals, which held that the Clayton act, in so far as it provided for jury trials in contempt cases, was unconstitutional. These courts also held that striking workers had lost their standing as employees of the railroad when they went out on strike. The United States Supreme Court reverses these decisions and restores to the complainants their constitutional right of trial by a jury of their peers. This must be hailed as a great triumph for constitutional guarantees.

The decision might well be called a self-denying act, as it restrains the courts in their assumed right to punish for contempt without recourse on the part of the victim. The practice had grown to large proportions, and had practically deprived workers in labor disputes of the power to have the facts reviewed by a jury, as Congress had provided. Such a decision should give pause to all those who would destroy the Supreme Court's authority as one of the checks and balances of our system of government under the Constitution.

Senators may come and go, but the moribund League of Nations lingers on.

COOLIDGE ON CORRUPTION

Speaking of official corruption and the betrayal of the people during the Republican administration, President Coolidge, in his speech to the Associated Press in New York, on April 22, said:

"BUT THE WONDER IS NOT THAT THIS (CORRUPTION) IS SO MUCH AND SO MANY (CORRUPTIONISTS); RATHER THAT IT IS SO LITTLE AND SO FEW."

CALVIN MAVOURNEEN.

Calvin Mavourneen, the Old Party's breaking, the voice of La Follette o'er prairie and hill Rings out, and John Davis each day votes is making; Then Calvin Mavourneen, why slum'breest thou still? Forget not how Fall and Doheney, so clever, Need thee in the White House. Their trials will start Next year, if it's Davis (if you go back—never) Then why art thou silent? Thy lips—let them part.

Oh! Calvin Mavourneen, the ballots are falling In white clouds for Davis, from Texas to Maine; The soldier, the postman, the farmer are calling To him, and all workers join in the refrain.

Thy silence hath done thee, and soon thou must sever Thyself from the White House, no longer thy home; But down through dim ages, forever and ever, Thy silence shall thunder. Good-by! Teap Dome. W. JAKE AREL.

Sir: An old-fashioned preacher, inveighing against the iniquitous modern custom of flitting around over the country on Sunday instead of going to church, summed the whole matter up in this terse observation:

"Brethren, we would all go straight to hell if we had the price." Rather startling in its homely abruptness, but doubtless true. It does seem as though it is the high cost of going to hell that prevents many of us from hitting the broad and enticing trail that leads to a perhaps already over-populated perdition. Not having the price of a machine we make a virtue of necessity and take the pedestrian route to heaven and the church and the prayer-meeting.

When one is poor and miserable, it is consoling to contemplate the glories that await the meek and lowly pedestrian on the other side of Jordan, where the rich man and his limousine can no longer enter in; but, should Fortune smile upon us, and the good old iron dollars begin rolling our way, the vision somehow takes on a nearer, if material, aspect. Celestial glories fade into insignificance when the latest model comes within our reach, and the inscrutable smile for which he is noted appears on the face of His Satanic Majesty as we turn away from the church and join the innumerable caravan that is honking its way to his ignominious domain.

AJB: The practice of going into a garage and doing your own work with the other fellow's tools has resulted in the following being posted in a garage at Mineola, Mo.: NOTICE All work done in here must be paid for same as having it done. That ought to hold them.

It might be October all right, but nowadays nobody would be patient enough to leave it stand around long enough to get brown. In fact, October ale would already be disposed of in September.

ANALYTIKOS.

Sir: Mr. Burke in a book review in Saturday's Post-Dispatch, severely rebuked a biographer for seeking to canonize Robert Burns. The entire absence of sympathy for such an effort does not alter the fact that such attempts do very little, if any, harm. They never deceive any save those who wish to be, and indeed, they may let a little light of truth from the great character into places otherwise barred.

It is all very well to recall Cromwell's "Paint me warts and all," but what painter, what biographer, really does that? If they did, as a general rule, what a smashing of idols in our literary pantheons! Think what would happen to our own "Gene" Field, and even the great Mark Twain. The literary ghoul with a passion for what Garber called "the filthy truth," who cannot take their hero or author without their warts and other deformities are like a man who cannot see or use the good fruit on a tree without giving equal attention to some rotten sample growing or rather festering there. How foolish! NICO DEMUS.

Cleveland permitted the business interests to scatter their municipal buildings all over town, and the consequence is that Cleveland has no formal municipal center. Had the Roman Forum, which is the greatest of all civic centers, been built in our time it would have been scattered all over the seven hills of Rome. Fortunately, it was built in another time, and little by little it emerges from the dust as history's most priceless relic.

Charlie Bryan points out that Senator La Follette has not been certified to the voters in enough states to win the presidency even if he carried all those states in which he has electors. In other words, you may be sure that enough traps and pits have been placed about the long green to keep anyone from dropping his ball on it from somewhere out in the rough.

THE THIEF.

Hush, now the stars in whispering slumber, I'll creep to the stars in their drowsy array, And, gently unclipping a host of their number, Hid close in my doublet I'll steal them away.

Deep in the wood with a whisp of the shimmer Of moon I shall fashion for thy pretty throat A necklace of stars interwoven with glimmer Of dew stolen soft from a sleeping elf's coat.

The MIRROR OF PUBLIC OPINION

FLORIDA CENTENNIAL.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal. NEXT MONTH the State of Florida celebrates the centennial of the establishment of that former Spanish possession, a legislative unit of the United States. Tallahassee plans commemorative pageants and parades in observance of the anniversary of the first lawmaking body held in a log hut on the Indian settlement of St. Marks, on the site of the present capital of the Everglades State. Florida would sooner or later have been a Jackson had not invaded the country, hanged two of the tribe's chiefs and two British subjects who suspected of stirring up the natives against Americans on the northern border. Perhaps a score or more of years ago, into the country's hands because of acknowledged decadence of Spanish rule and authority. One of the important effects of the Florida annexation was the removal of the territorial government from St. Augustine to Tallahassee. Here is where Clay, his eagerness to attack Monroe, his fiery Jacksonian nature. The empty censure aroused was to result in the firing of forces which kept Clay out of presidential chair and eventually elected him and his party. True, Clay's coalition with John Quincy Adams, the Kentuckian had previously announced was the means of keeping Jackson out of the White House in 1824, but Clay thereafter never able to stop the tide of Jacksonianism. The Florida annexation, however, was a great mistake. WISDOM OF 1,658,000 YEARS OFFERED AT $20

Yogi From Benares Says It's Easy to Live to Be 1000—Just by Vibrating.

To formulate the Yogi philosophy required 1,658,000 years, Sri Deva Ram Sukul told a small audience in the Adams room at Hotel Bader last night, and then concluded that for $20 he would impart in four lessons the wisdom of those years. He was delivering the second of two free lectures with which he prefaces his short course in Yoga Nawajivan—translated by the Yogi as "Path to New Life."

Sri Deva Ram Sukul comes from the Holy City of Benares. Last night he was gorgeous to behold, wearing ends of the pink turban which bound his head hung to below his waist. About his throat was a scarf of brilliant green with silver lacings, and his long, loose coat of heavy yellow and gold brocade silk was bound about the middle with a yellow sash. As he entered the lecture hall there were audible and feminine "Ah's."

Teaches Astral Projection.

Sri Deva Ram Sukul was on the job to teach the faithful all about vibrations, breathing, and astral projection. Those who were lifted with psychic sight in that interested audience might even have seen the auro so projected. One woman did—she testified—and it was iridescent, sun-colored, like a Russian glass, she said. She may have been mistaken for Sri Deva Ram Sukul explained that it was blue. But as no one else had seen the argument stopped right there, and the unimpaired referee might have called it a draw. Although it took 1,658,000 years to formulate the wisdom of the Yogi, the lecturer last night explained, the philosophy is quite suited to modern conditions. It has quite anticipated science, Sri Deva Ram Sukul averred, and the genuine Yogi has no need to regenerate his body by surgical means. He prescribes vibrations. "Easy to Live 1000 Years."

The basis of vibration, the Yogi declared, is breathing. And when the neophyte practices "prana," which is the Yogi name for proper breathing and afterwards by vibration "with polarity to the blood," he can unite the blood and eliminate all disease.

In that way it is easy enough for a man to live 1000 years, he explained. And such a life! It is a plane of existence above vice and virtue, above praise or blame, above pleasure and pain, because it is united with the eternal Yogi in India, he declared, have been able to live upon this plane for hundreds of years without partaking of food or drink.

That method of beating the high of living isn't effective, after Sri Deva Ram Sukul stopped at the most interesting point in his lecture—just as he was to explain prana and vibration—to take up a collection because vibrations aren't exactly legal under the present laws, hotel bills. After that he said some books.

There was a gazing crystal mounted on a brass image of a hooded cobra before him. On the wall hung a cotton print and on the floor was an Afghan rug. And the cotton print was hung in the place which marked the physiological location of man's soul. Perhaps a score last night enrolled to invest in a $20 equity in the wisdom of 1,658,000 years.

23-3 CREW THEATER GUESTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—An audience of 6000 persons cheered the playing of "Deutschland Ueber All" last night at a theater where the officers and crew of the ZR-3 were guests of the management. There was no trace of unfriendliness when Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the giant dirigible on her Transatlantic flight, made a speech in German.

A gift of $25,000 to the Bishop Tuttle Memorial from the Mallinckrodt family was announced today by Dean William Scariett of Christ Church Cathedral.

Edward Mallinckrodt Sr., president of the Mallinckrodt Chemical Co., has been interested in the Cathedral for many years, and the late Mrs. Mallinckrodt was closely identified with the work there. Edward Mallinckrodt Jr. is a member of the Cathedral chapter, the governing body of the church. This is the largest gift by one family thus far in the memorial campaign.

A number of memorials will be included in the Bishop Tuttle Memorial, and at the luncheon of campaign workers today it was announced that $1000 had been given by Mrs. Willard Bartlett for a memorial to her uncle, the late Bishop Charles Robertson, who was the second Bishop of Missouri, and preceded Bishop Tuttle. He was Bishop for 18 years in this diocese, and in that time built up the church from 17 parishes and six mission stations to 86 churches and missions, trebled the revenues and more than trebled the list of communicants.

Mrs. C. U. Holmes, who had made a direct contribution to the memorial, has included in her will the bequest of $2000 for a memorial room to her husband, the late C. U. Holmes, who founded the Episcopal Mission to the City Institutions 37 years ago.

O'BRIEN'S MINSTRELS AT ODEON

Troupe Here for Week on Thirteenth Annual Visit.

The Neil O'Brien Minstrels, now mostly in whiteface, began a week's engagement last night at the Odeon—their thirteenth annual visit here. The attendance was small. The first half of the generous entertainment was a potpourri of comic and sentimental ditties, interspersed with repartee between interlocutor and endmen. The second part included a farcical barber shop melée, with Neil O'Brien and others; a jazzed version of Spanish singing and dancing, a burlesque of fashion revues, and a scene of two blackamoors who go to a graveyard at midnight to recover $500 accidentally buried with a corpse.

Among those featured are Tex Hendrix and George Bracken, female impersonators; Scotti and Maxine McCoy, yodelers; Sherry and Blake, prancers; and grotesque "Sugarfoot" Gaffney, who shoo' trickles a syrupy hoof.

WIFE OF BERT LYTELL IS GRANTED DIVORCE

Screen Actor, Making Film in South Seas, Represented by an Attorney.

By the Associated Press. INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Oct. 21.—Mrs. Evelyn Vaughn Lytell was granted a divorce yesterday from Bert Lytell, motion picture actor, following a short hearing before Judge E. E. Porterfield. Mrs. Lytell charged indignities. Lytell, who was represented by his attorney, is reported to be in the South Sea Islands engaged in making a picture.

The Lytells were married Aug. 5, 1916, and lived together until about a year ago. Mrs. Lytell charged her husband deserted her Oct. 1, 1923. In the last five years, Mrs. Lytell testified, Lytell had repeatedly told her that he no longer desired to live with her. He also told others, she said, that he desired to obtain a divorce and live his own life.

In his answer, Lytell admitted the date of their marriage and that they had lived together until a year ago. Other allegations were denied.

Mrs. Lytell was known on the stage as Evelyn Vaughn. She is a daughter of Mrs. Georgia Brown Quinley, dramatic and dancing teacher. She was a leading woman in drama at San Francisco, but gave up the stage about four years ago.

It is understood that a property settlement was agreed to some time ago and that the divorce clears the way for Lytell to marry Claire Windsor, a motion picture star.

Former St. Louisian Robbed in Los Angeles

Mrs. Sol Sternberg's Jewelry Worth $10,000 Recovered and Thief Caught.

It became known here today that Mrs. Sol Sternberg, formerly a St. Louis vocal teacher, was robbed Oct. 1 at Los Angeles of $10,000 in jewelry by a highwayman, who was captured at the scene of the robbery. Mrs. Sternberg was best known to musical circles here as Rosa St. Emmer, her professional name.

Mrs. Sternberg was robbed as she returned in her automobile with a relative from the opera. A lone robber stopped the machine and after ordering Mrs. Sternberg to hand over her rings became impatient and wrenched them from her fingers, injuring her hands so severely that she sought treatment at a hospital.

As the robber turned to flee two detectives who had been riding Long Beach boulevard in search of crooks, pulled up beside the stolen machine and captured the robber.

Mrs. Sternberg formerly lived at 5961 McPherson avenue, and maintained a studio here. She moved to Los Angeles about two and a half years ago with her family. She is a sister of Dr. I. J. Harris, 7032 Westmoreland drive, University City.

Yogi From Benares Says It's Easy to Live to Be 1000—Just by Vibrating.

To formulate the Yogi philosophy required 1,658,000 years, Sri Deva Ram Sukul told a small audience in the Adams room at Hotel Bader last night, and then concluded that for $20 he would impart in four lessons the wisdom of those years. He was delivering the second of two free lectures with which he prefaces his short course in Yoga Nawajivan—translated by the Yogi as "Path to New Life."

Sri Deva Ram Sukul comes from the Holy City of Benares. Last night he was gorgeous to behold, wearing ends of the pink turban which bound his head hung to below his waist. About his throat was a scarf of brilliant green with silver lacings, and his long, loose coat of heavy yellow and gold brocade silk was bound about the middle with a yellow sash. As he entered the lecture hall there were audible and feminine "Ah's."

Teaches Astral Projection. Sri Deva Ram Sukul was on the job to teach the faithful all about vibrations, breathing, and astral projection. Those who were lifted with psychic sight in that interested audience might even have seen the auro so projected. One woman did—she testified—and it was iridescent, sun-colored, like a Russian glass, she said. She may have been mistaken for Sri Deva Ram Sukul explained that it was blue. But as no one else had seen the argument stopped right there, and the unimpaired referee might have called it a draw. Although it took 1,658,000 years to formulate the wisdom of the Yogi, the lecturer last night explained, the philosophy is quite suited to modern conditions. It has quite anticipated science, Sri Deva Ram Sukul averred, and the genuine Yogi has no need to regenerate his body by surgical means. He prescribes vibrations. "Easy to Live 1000 Years."

The basis of vibration, the Yogi declared, is breathing. And when the neophyte practices "prana," which is the Yogi name for proper breathing and afterwards by vibration "with polarity to the blood," he can unite the blood and eliminate all disease.

In that way it is easy enough for a man to live 1000 years, he explained. And such a life! It is a plane of existence above vice and virtue, above praise or blame, above pleasure and pain, because it is united with the eternal Yogi in India, he declared, have been able to live upon this plane for hundreds of years without partaking of food or drink.

That method of beating the high of living isn't effective, after Sri Deva Ram Sukul stopped at the most interesting point in his lecture—just as he was to explain prana and vibration—to take up a collection because vibrations aren't exactly legal under the present laws, hotel bills. After that he said some books.

There was a gazing crystal mounted on a brass image of a hooded cobra before him. On the wall hung a cotton print and on the floor was an Afghan rug. And the cotton print was hung in the place which marked the physiological location of man's soul. Perhaps a score last night enrolled to invest in a $20 equity in the wisdom of 1,658,000 years.

feel in the government to which they owe their allegiance. For that confidence, in turn, lies at the bottom of all political stability, just as it lies at the bottom of all business stability.

"And, as we have learned too well, since the great war, by the history of great nations that have been disturbed by that cataclysm, political stability, the stability of the government, of organized society, lies at the bottom of all human happiness and comfort. And so long as we have organized ourselves into these governmental units, confidence in those who operate them is indispensable to public happiness and to private comfort.

"The heaviest charge which can be laid at the door of the Republican party, as now organized and conducted, is that it has shaken the confidence of the American people in government. And that I believe to be as grave a charge as can be laid at the door of any political party in the world. At the bottom of that is the basis of all the attack I have seen fit to make upon the Republican party or any of its officers."

Irons Out Party Differences.

Functioning actively in his capacity as commander-in-chief of the party, the candidate ironed out the Tennessee organization and aroused an enthusiasm that State leaders said would insure the success of the State and national tickets at the polls.

In the afternoon Davis spoke in the open to more than 12,000 persons at the Vanderbilt University Stadium. He was introduced with words of high praise by Gov. Austin Peay, a leader of the McAdoo forces in the New York convention, who had been accounted lukewarm in support of Davis' candidacy.

Peay's speech was hailed by party strategists as the opening of a whole-hearted and united campaign by all the leaders of the party in Tennessee, to overturn the majority which Harding received in the State in 1920.

On arrival at the stadium, Davis was taken on a triumphal tour around the running track in front of the stands. Standing bareheaded in an open car, the candidate was kept busy bowing to the cheers that rippled around the bowl. People were still pouring into the stands when Gov. Peay began his introduction. He declared that Davis ranked with Tilden, Cleveland, Wilson and other great leaders of the party. Success of Davis in the election, the Governor said, would mean the end of privilege and favoritism in the Government at Washington. References to the candidate as "Southern born and one of our own folks" was warmly applauded.

Davis was received with cheers. His day of rest yesterday had set him up in good physical shape and his voice rang out clearly. It was evident from the applause on the far fringes of the audience that the amplifiers were carrying his words to all sections of the stadium. Davis said that as "commander-in-chief of the Democratic party" he had sent Congressman Hull on an important errand for the party. A graceful tribute to Hull brought much applause. A greater demonstration ensued when Davis referred to his own candidacy. He acknowledged with a smile a piercing yell from a Tennessee mountaineer, "Boy, we're for you."

New Criticism of Coolidge.

Davis made the stadium speech the vehicle of a fresh criticism of President Coolidge.

He declared in effect, though in more polite words—words that brought snickers of amusement from the audience—that Coolidge was talking through his hat in his recent Navy day letter.

He recalled that Coolidge had once said in speaking of the Washington arms conference that it stands "among the revolutionary and sublime achievements of the human race." Davis thought that this was going pretty far.

"And imagine my surprise," he added, "when I read today under the hand of the President himself, comment on that conference of a character I never should have made, and more disparaging to it, if literally pursued, than anything I would have dared to say."

He then quoted the President's statement in his letter to the head of the Navy League, that "the leading sea Powers have united in the agreement that the United States is entitled to maintain a navy equal to that of any other Power."

Applause ran through the stands as Davis made his comment "in the language of old Ethan Allen, in the name of the great Jehovah and the Continental Congress, when did we need an agreement to maintain a navy such as we desired?"

With equal equanimity he referred to the Coolidge statement, in the same letter, that a naval rank second to none is assured to us without engaging in a competition of maritime construction, and at a less cost than would have been possible under the old regime of competitive building.

Not "Second to None."

Davis questioned the truth of the assertion that the Washington agreements assured this country a naval rank second to none.

"For notwithstanding these agreements," he said, "notwithstanding that other Powers have asserted that we are entitled to maintain a navy equal to theirs, the fact is the Secretary of the Navy says that we are grossly inferior today to Great Britain and barely equal to Japan. It takes something more than a paper agreement to assure to a navy equal to that of any other Power."

"Now he added that the President this credit—of believing that he really did not understand the import of that language."

He was impelled to believe, he said, that the President knew as well as everybody else that the Washington conference fixed the 5-5-3 ratio only in respect to capital battleships. It should always be understood, Davis said, that the conference did not deal with fast cruisers, aircraft and submarines.

"All that I ask," he continued, "is that partisan exaggeration in the midst of a political campaign shall not lull the American people into a sense of security greater than they enjoy."

For the greater part of his remarks, Davis took his text from the life of Andrew Jackson, whose tomb near here he visited on Sunday. He drew a parallel between the Jackson period and that of Woodrow Wilson.

Puts G. O. P. on Grill.

Dramatically, Davis summoned his Republican opponents to the bar of public opinion and tried them by the Jacksonian test. He explained that he dealt with them not as individuals, but as the leaders of a party.

"And I call these gentlemen here this afternoon," he said, "and I ask them first of all the question: Have you been honest in public office?"

Cries of "No" came back from the audience.

"Well," said Davis, "that is not the answer they make. The answer they make is: 'Yes, in spots, and it is the only answer they can make in the face of the undisputed and indisputable facts.'"

Continuing his examination, Davis asked "these friends of ours" another question. Had they been just and impartial? The answer, he said, was again "yes," but with the qualification, "wherever our friends were not concerned."

He cited the Fordney-McCumber tariff act as a shining example of favoritism in government, and in this connection again struck at the provision which gives the President power to raise or lower rates.

This provision, he said, was "such as had not appeared in the legislation of any English-speaking Parliament since the days of Charles I."

Republican Lack of Courage.

Finally Davis indicted the Republican party for lack of courage.

"Let us ask our friends another Jacksonian question," he said. "How much of mastery have you exhibited? Where is your leader, and where his followers? They say, 'Oh, yes, we have a leader, but it is true he has no followers.' Then another fraction of them answers, 'Oh, yes, we have plenty of followers, but they have no leaders.' And I am not sure, paradoxical as it may seem, that both of those statements are not literally true."

"Where is the Jacksonian impulse that seizes the rudder of the ship of state and holds her firm, no matter how the winds may blow?"

He said the President had acted in the oil and Daugherty scandals only when forced to do so by the legislative branch.

"Where is there in that," he concluded, "or where is there in the foreign policy of the administration, that courageous initiative which would be present if Old Hickory were in Washington today?"

Davis was frequently and generously applauded.

Davis' visit to Tennessee is considered by Democratic leaders to have assured his success in this State, which Harding carried by 13,000 in 1920. The visit was something more than a "courtesy call" on the South.

La Follette's Vote.

Senator La Follette, according to the best information obtainable here, will poll between 3,000 and 40,000 votes in Tennessee. Many of which will come from the Democratic ranks. In this prospect is an element of danger which caused the Democratic strategists earnestly to desire the presence of the Democratic candidate.

There has been considerable criticism of Gov. Austin Peay, Democratic candidate for re-election, for his failure in several speeches to mention Davis' candidacy. At Morristown recently Peay prefaced a reference to McAdoo with the statement that "McAdoo more nearly interpreted the heart of the common people than any candidate."

The talk of Peay's lukewarmness toward Davis subsided somewhat when it was announced that he would introduce Davis at the stadium this afternoon.

The skill of Davis as a harmonizer was seen in a further announcement that former Gov. Benton McMillan had agreed to bury his old-time political enmity for Gov. Peay and take the stump in a campaign for the Democratic ticket, State and national.

Leaders flocked to Nashville from all parts of the State to pledge their allegiance to the national candidate. The result was a genuine love feast described here as the largest and most representative gathering of Democratic leaders in Tennessee for the last 25 years. All the living Democratic ex-Governors were present.

Among these now in line for an elective fight in Davis' behalf are former Senator James B. Frazier, former Senator Luke Lea and former Gov. Tom C. Rye.

The Davis party left this morning for Louisville, where the candidate is scheduled to speak tonight. Other addresses booked for the present tour are at Vincennes and Evansville, Ind., tomorrow, and at Cleveland Wednesday. The Vincennes speech was added at the request of Senator Ralston of Indiana, who visited Davis here Sunday and told him that his chances of carrying Indiana were excellent.

Body of Man Identified.

A man found unconscious on Broadway and Gratiot street Sunday night, who died later at the Hospital, was identified last night as Emil Faessler, 32 years old, of 2200 Victor street, a baker. An autopsy will be held to determine the cause of death.

GOMPERS ISSUES APPEAL TO LABOR FOR LA FOLLETTE

Federation Chief Says It Is Workers' Opportunity to Make Great Protest Effective.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has addressed a message to organized labor, defining the issues upon which he urges its support of the La Follette-Wheeler ticket and declaring it to be the first time in the country's history that "such a tremendous and determined opposition was arrayed against the sinister influences that have controlled our Government."

The message will be read, it is said, at every trade union meeting in the country and at all political rallies conducted by organized labor this week.

"Through a remarkable campaign in 1922," the message said, "the nonpartisan political campaign policy of the American Federation of Labor was helpful in the election of 170 members of the present Congress which has been more responsive to the wishes of the people than any other in many years. But the Supreme Court and the chief executives for the past four years did and have maintained a steady trend toward greater and greater reaction, which is as much desired by the privileged few."

"The Republican party is owned and controlled by the reactionaries, by those who in order to give special privileges to the well-to-do would place heavy burdens on those least able to bear them. The Democratic party is controlled by the same sinister influences. The fact is that Coolidge and Davis were nominated by the same sinister influences."

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Oct. 21.—The English edition of the Nishi Nichi, a publication which is close to the Japanese Foreign Office, today editorially urges the return of M. Hanthorn as Ambassador from Japan to the United States. "Hanthorn's return to Washington would be a graceful act after the unfortunate immigration upheaval," the Nishi Nichi says.

People Saw

Demonstrate Modern Production Methods

Last week, in response to our invitation, thousands of people saw Chevrolet production methods demonstrated in the St. Louis plant. Thousands saw the fine materials that go into the construction of Chevrolets. They saw equipment such as is found on much higher priced cars being used—Remy Electric System, vacuum tank fuel feed, forced feed lubrication, etc. Their keen appreciation of every detail reaffirmed public recognition of Chevrolet worth. Again the public expressed astonishment upon learning that so much quality could be built into a car of this price class.

RIGHT OF STRIKERS TO JURY TRIAL FOR CONTEMPT UPHeld

Supreme Court Says Clayton Act Provision for Such Hearings Is Constitutional.

By the Associated Press.
 WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Federal Courts cannot refuse jury trials in contempt cases arising out of labor disputes, the Supreme Court held yesterday in two cases, one coming from Western Wisconsin, brought by Sam Michaelson and others, and the other from Kentucky, brought by H. C. Sandefur.

The important feature of the opinion is the rule laid down to be followed when persons are charged with having violated injunctions issued by the courts in connection with pending or prospective labor strikes.

The opinion, delivered by Justice Sutherland, held that the section of the Clayton act requiring a jury trial in certain specified kinds of contempt is constitutional; that railroad workers on strike are "employees" within the meaning of that law; that the contempt charged constituted a criminal offense, and that a trial by jury is mandatory when demanded.

During the shopmen's strike in 1922, Michaelson and other striking employees of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Railway Co. were charged with conspiring to interfere with interstate commerce by picketing and the use of force and violence.

Power to Punish.

Declaring that the "power to punish for contempts is inherent in all courts," and "essential to the administration of justice," the Supreme Court at the same time asserted that it could not be doubted that such power could be regulated within certain limits. Congress could not abridge, it explained, the power of the Court to deal with contempts committed in the presence of the Court or so near thereto as to obstruct the administration of justice, nor to enforce its decrees. Congress had not attempted to do any of these things in the Clayton act, the Court added.

In that law Congress required, the opinion said, a trial by jury upon the demand of the accused "in an independent proceeding at law for a criminal contempt which is also a crime." In criminal contempt, as in criminal cases, it pointed out, the presumption of innocence obtains. Under such circumstances the proof of guilt must be beyond reasonable doubt. It was added, and the defendant may not be compelled to be a witness against himself.

Public and Defendant.
 The proceeding has ceased to be a suit between the original parties, Justice Sutherland stated, and has become one between the public and the defendant. The only difference between it and a criminal proceeding by indictment, it was held, is that in the latter a violation of the law is charged, while in the former a violation of a decree is charged.

Consequently the extension of the constitutional right of a trial by jury to contempt cases such as those covered by the Clayton Act does not, Justice Sutherland said, "invade the powers of the courts as intended by the Constitution or violate that instrument in any other way."

Taking up the decision of the trial court that the workers had ceased when they went on strike to be "employees" within the meaning of the Clayton act, Justice Sutherland asserted that, in the present controversy, it was not necessary that the old status of employer and employee should exist at the time the alleged contempt was committed in order to make effective the provision of the Clayton Act with respect to a trial by jury. To say that their employees were outside the provision of the statute would be to engraft upon it an exception not warranted by its terms. To construe the "jury provision of the statute as otherwise than mandatory, Justice Sutherland stated, "would be to subvert the plain intent and good sense of the statute."

Restriction Valid.

Sandefur was held in contempt for violating an order of the court with respect to the use, and threats of violence in connection with a strike against the Canoe Creek Coal Company in Kentucky. When the case reached the sixth circuit court of appeals that court asked the Supreme Court for instructions as to whether the trial by jury section of the Clayton Act, "as a condition precedent to punishment for contempt," imposed a valid restriction upon the inherent judicial power of the United States district courts, "meaning the power to punish for contempt." The Supreme Court replied that the restriction in the Clayton Act was valid.

Mr. Edward O'Neill stands high in the opinion of his former officers, and fellow brethren. He has been in the department a long time, is now stationed at 2400 South Fourth street.

Mr. O'Neill was cured of a very bad case of rectal trouble, over one year ago. His letter explains it. It also is the best evidence that a cure is within reach of every afflicted person who lives in St. Louis and vicinity.

Mr. O'Neill suggests the use of his letter to influence other sufferers to come and get cured. I have hundreds upon hundreds of letters similar to Mr. O'Neill's. They come from men and women who range in age from 20 years old to 70 years old, and they all tell very much the same story. Recently a lady 70 years old left my office expressing great gratitude for a remarkable cure in her case of over 10 years' standing. Her only regret was that she had not come years before.

Do not hesitate to call for consultation and an examination. Remember, you are under no obligation to take treatment if you do not wish to do so, after the examination and consultation.

STILLMAN INTENDS TO DROP DIVORCE SUIT
 For Wife Says There Is "Absolutely Nothing to It"
 The Humor.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—There is absolutely nothing in it," Isaac N. Stillman, counsel for Mrs. Annie U. Stillman, said yesterday when asked about the rumor that James A. Stillman intends to abandon his efforts for a divorce.

The rumor grew out of Stillman's man's appeal in the Court of Appeals Saturday at the wedding of his daughter, Anne, to Henry P. Davidson at Mrs. Stillman's home in Pleasantville.

Mills said he had no information that Stillman wished to drop litigation out of consideration for Mrs. Davidson, and he doubted a reconciliation would take place.

"Any report to that effect probably is an exaggeration of the fact that Stillman recently withdrew his appeal from Justice Morschauser's decision allowing Mrs. Stillman $15,000 counsel fee to fight Stillman's appeal in the Court of Appeals," Mills said. "Mr. Stillman's presence at the wedding means nothing, it was the natural thing to do."

Mrs. Stillman declined to affirm or deny reports of withdrawal of divorce proceedings.

"However, what is best for the children they shall have," she said.

 Police are investigating the stabbing of Clarence Rudloff, 19 years old, of 1316 Palm street, whom they found at his home last night under treatment for a serious wound in the back. The case had been reported to police by doctors to whom Rudloff had appealed for treatment.

Rudloff said he was stabbed without provocation Sunday night in front of a dance hall at Ninth and Montgomery streets. He was amidst a crowd that had left the hall to watch a fight and while standing there, he said, someone jabbed a knife into his back. He did not see his assailant and could give no reason for the assault on him.

Help the Friendless and Afflicted

DID you ever stop to think what would happen if there were no hospitals in St. Louis to care for the afflicted? Those who are able should be expected to pay, but the sick poor must be cared for. The appeal of the helpless cannot go unanswered.

For half a century in St. Louis the Sisters of St. Mary have ministered to the sick and poor. A large part of their noble efforts are for charity. By self-denial and personal sacrifices they have built hospitals to enable them to broaden the scope of their work. So long as they have an empty bed they receive the worthy afflicted, regardless of creed or nationality.

By patient effort, and asking no earthly reward, the Sisters have built up three great St. Louis institutions—St. Mary's Infirmary, Mount St. Rose Sanatorium for Tuberculosis, and the new $1,250,000 St. Mary's Hospital. They have assumed a heavy debt for this human service.

You Have a Duty to Perform. The Sisters Need Help

You now have an opportunity to express your gratitude for this humanitarian work by helping to relieve the Sisters of their financial burden. The Sisters are willingly and uncomplainingly doing the work. You can help pay their debt.

A campaign is being conducted to lift this debt and endow St. Mary's Hospital by an endowment insurance plan, which has the approval of Archbishop John J. Glennon and business laymen.

The Sisters' ideal of aiding the sick poor has always been maintained at their institutions.

Your Help Is Needed!

The Endowment Insurance Plan

Five-year endowment policies are being issued in amounts of $500 or more by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company to persons between the ages of 10 to 65 years, payable to the Sisters of St. Mary.

Each man or woman taking out a policy for $1000 or more is entitled to free hospital service at St. Mary's Infirmary during periods of sickness for the rest of his or her life.

The premiums are payable annually, semi-annually or quarterly. At the end of five years the face value of the policy, with earned dividends, will be paid to the Sisters of St. Mary.

If the insured dies within five years, all payments cease and the face value of the policy will be paid to the Sisters of St. Mary at once.

Insurance is selected as the means by which this fund shall be raised. It is a practical, business-like method for endowing your hospital.

WORK OF BUILDING NEW POLISH SEAPORT BEGUN

Maintenance of Sea Communication Between Poland and France Assured by New Port.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Oct. 21.—French contractors have begun the work of building the first all-Polish seaport at Gdynia.

The port will soon be available,

according to Le Matin, as a base for submarines, "which alone can insure freedom of communication with the Baltic, now controlled by the German-Russian fleet."

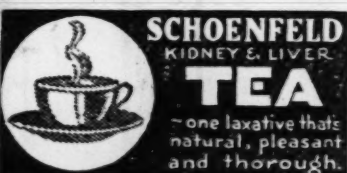

Gen. Sikorski, the Polish Minister of National Defense, is in Paris, the paper says, with the object of providing for the maintenance of sea communications between Poland and France. Poland was unable to rely upon Danzig in the event of a crisis, Le Matin asserts, in view of the "nationalist tendencies" of the Danzig authorities.

United States Issues Substitute for One Discovered by Police of Berlin.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Oct. 21.—Hugo and Therese Petri, whose American passport was found by the police last week in a raid made by the police on a communist passport forging establishment, have been granted a temporary passport by the State Department at Washington. It is assumed they have left Germany in Alton, Ill.

In the raid by the German police last week, two forged dies of American State Department seals and one return passage steamship ticket to the United States were found. There also were discovered by the police passes to cross the German border made out in the name of Herr Thaelmann, chairman of the Communist Parliamentary Delegation, a Swiss pass for Herr Koenen, former chairman of the communist delegation, and also Swiss and Danzig passes for various other communist parliamentarians.

Petri is a butcher at an Alton packing house. He and his wife visited Germany during the summer and returned a month ago. On arriving at Hamburg, June 21, Petri was robbed of his wallet, containing his passport and steamer ticket home, but obtained the duplicate passport.

ACQUITTED OF CHARGE OF STEALING AN AUTOMOBILE

W. T. Noel, in Whose Garage Parts of Car Were Found Freed by Jury in Circuit Court.

A jury in Circuit Judge Hamilton's court yesterday acquitted William T. Noel, 28 years old, garage proprietor, 1437 Dodder street, of a charge of larceny of an automobile last November from Frank Busalaki, 3728 North Florissant avenue.

On the witness stand Busalaki identified four wire wheels, barrel lamps and an automobile door found by police after the theft in Noel's garage at 1411 Wright street, as equipment of his Ford automobile. No testimony connecting Noel with the theft of the car was introduced and only character witnesses testified in his behalf. At the time of his arrest in April Noel told police he obtained the automobile equipment claimed by Busalaki from a man who had some repairs made in his garage.

BARRETT, AT CORNERSTONE LAYING, ASSAULTS INTOLERANCE

Attorney-General Delivers Address at Masonic Temple Ceremony

Intolerance was condemned by Attorney-General Barrett, orator of the grand lodge of Missouri Masons, in an address this afternoon at the cornerstones laying of the new Masonic Temple, on Landon boulevard, between Grand and Sprague avenues. He said:

"There are times even in this fair land of freedom when intolerance rears its ugly head and men who should be considering their own religion are quarreling about the faith of others. Freemasonry stands upon the eternal principle that no man has the right to measure for another the degree of veneration which he shall feel for any religious creed. The hideousness of intolerance does not depend upon the question of by whose hand it is raised, nor can intolerance be cured by intolerance. The glory of America is that here men of all faiths and men of all races may live happily side by side in friendship and in peace, each guaranteed his inalienable right to worship according to his own mind and heart. That likewise should ever be the glory of Freemasonry."

The ceremonies began with a parade of Masons and associated orders of masonry, including uniformed ranks and drum corps, from Kingshighway and Lindell to the temple, which is a short distance west of the new Scottsbluff Hotel. The program at the cornerstones began about 2:30 p. m., with Joseph S. McIntyre, grand master of the order for Missouri, presiding. There were a few addresses, but the ceremonies were largely ritualistic. Plans for launching a campaign for $1,000,000 to finish the temple have been completed.

MUST RETURN $45,000 TO TEMTOR COMPANY TRUSTEE

Mercantile Trust Denied Hearing by U. S. Supreme Court of Appeals from Order by Judge Faria, ordering the return to John Schaffly, Trustee in Bankruptcy of the Temtor Corn & Fruit Products Co., of $45,000 by the Mercantile Trust Co., was in effect last yesterday when the United States Supreme Court refused a writ of certiorari to the trust company.

When the Temtor company went into bankruptcy, Schaffly as trustee took steps to force return of $45,000 which had been paid the trust company on a bond issue of the Temtor company. Judge Faria found that the payment constituted an illegal preference of creditors and ordered the money returned. The United States Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed the decision. The trust company then sought the writ of certiorari, which was denied.

J. R. Garfield Assails La Follette
CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 20.—James R. Garfield, son of the late president James A. Garfield and Secretary of the Interior during the Roosevelt administration, in a speech here last night assailed Senator La Follette as a candidate untrue to the principles of the old progressive party. He stated that various Socialist and Communist elements had a hand in the shaping of the Progressive platform in Cleveland last July.

DAVIS DRIFT ALARMS G. D. P. SAYS SENATOR JONES

He Cites Proposal of C. D. Hill as Proof That Republican Knees Are Shaking.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—United States Senator Jones of New Mexico, chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, yesterday issued the following statement:

"During the whole of the campaign, there has been no more significant developments than two which have come within the last few days.

"One is that the Coolidge-Dawes board of strategy consisting of Butler, Slomp, Pepper and Mondell and a few others who enjoy the confidence of the President, have realized that the idea of electing a pro-Coolidge Republican Congress has vanished.

"The other is that Republican leaders have lost their professed cock-sureness of the election of President Coolidge on Nov. 4, and are now trying to hatch plans to bring about his election in the House of Representatives, in the event no candidate wins a majority in the electoral College. The latter, tacitly admitted by Charles D. Hill, vice chairman of the Republican National Committee, who comes forward with the suggestion that the delegations in the House from New Hampshire, New Jersey, Nebraska and Montana which are tied, agree to vote for the presidential candidate for whom their respective states give a plurality on Nov. 4. Heretofore, no Republican spokesman has even suggested the possibility of anything but a sweeping victory for Coolidge at the polls. The present unmistakable swing to Davis is giving the Coolidge managers concern and Mr. Hill's proposal is an admission that their knees are shaking."

SON SLAIN PROTECTING MOTHER

Stepfather of Victim Accused by Mate of Jersey Killing.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Because he sensed danger and brushed his mother aside to enter their North Bergen (N. J.) home first, John Vogt was the one to receive a blow from a butcher knife wielded by a person who leaped out of the dim lit hallway, struck silently and fled. The mother screamed and fled. A passing automobilist heard her, entered the hallway and took the boy to the North Hudson Hospital, where he was declared dead. The slayer was said by the boy's mother, Mrs. Kate Vogt Dusch, to be her husband the stepfather of the boy. She said she stayed long enough in the vicinity of the house to see him rush from it, jump into his automobile and speed away. He has not yet been caught. "That knife was meant for me," she told the police. "He had been threatening me and I expected it."

PROCLAIMING DISSOLUTION OF PARLIAMENT

Strictly in accordance with tradition, the King's proclamation of the dissolution of the English Parliament was read from the steps of the Royal Exchange by a bewigged city officer, while other officials in picturesque costumes looked on. The incident marked the official notification to the public of the fall of Premier Ramsay MacDonald and his Cabinet.

It isn't every one who can smile after defeat, but here we see the deposed Premier of the British Labor party, accompanied by Ben Spoor, the chief Labor whip, leaving Parliament following the dissolution of that body on Oct. 8.

SHE had come out so one autumn afternoon. She was feeling particularly gay, buoyant. In one of his rare hours of leisure Roelf Pool had come to help her with her peony roots which Pervus had brought her from Chicago for fall planting. Roelf had dug the trench, deep and wide, mulched it with cow-manure, banked it. They were to form a double row up the path to the front of the house, and in her mind's eye Selina already saw them blooming when spring should come, shaggy balls of luscious pink. Now Roelf was lending a hand to Pervus and Jan as they bent over the late beets and radishes. It was a day all gold and blue and scarlet; warm for the season with a ripe mellow warmth like yellow chardreuse. There were stretches of seal-black loam where the vegetables had been uprooted. Bunches of them, string-tied, lay ready for gathering into baskets. Selina's eye was gladdened by the clear coral of radishes lung against the rich black loam.

"A jewel, Pervus!" she cried. "A jewel in an Ethiope's ear!"

"What?" said Pervus, looking up, amiable but uncomprehending. But the boy smiled. Selina had left him that book for his own when she went away. Suddenly Selina stooped and picked up one of the scarlet and green clusters tied with a bit of string. Laughing, she whipped out a hairpin and fastened the bunch in her hair just behind her ear. An absurd thing to do, and childish. It should have looked as absurd as it was, but it didn't. Instead it was like a great crimson flower there. Her cheeks were flushed with the hot sun. Her fine dark hair was wavy-blown and a little loosened, her dress open at the throat. Her figure was fuller, her breast had a richer curve, for the child was four months on the way. She was laughing. At a little exclamation from Roelf, Pervus looked up, as did Jan. Selina took a slow rhythmic step, and another, her arms upraised, a provocative lovely bacchic little figure there in the fields under the hot blue sky. Jan seen wiped the sweat from his brown face, a glow in his eyes. "You are like the calendar!" cried Roelf, "on the wall in the parlor!" A cheap but vivid and not unlovely picture of a girl with cherries in her hair. It hung in the Pool farmhouse.

Pervus De Jong showed one of his rare storms of passion. Selina had not seen that blaze of blue in his eyes since the night, months ago, in the Pool kitchen. But that blaze had been a hot and burning blue, like the sky of today. This was a bitter blue, a chill and freezing thing, like the steel-blue of ice in the sun.

"Take them things out of your hair now! Take shame to yourself!" He strode over to her and snatched the things from her hair and threw them down and ground them into the soft earth with his heavy heel. A long coil of her fine dark hair came rippling over her shoulder as he did so. She stood looking at him, her eyes wide, dark, enormous in her face now suddenly white.

His wrath was born of the narrow insular mind that fears gossip. He knew that the hired man would tell through the length and width of High Prairie how Pervus De Jong's wife pinned red radishes in her hair and danced in the fields like a loose woman.

Selina had turned, fled to the house. It was their first serious quarrel. For days she was hurt, ashamed, moody. They made it up, of course. Pervus was contrite, abject almost. But something that belonged to her girlhood had left her that day.

During that winter she was often hideously lonely. She never got over her hunger for companionship. Here she was, a gregarious and fun-loving creature, buried in a snow-bound Illinois prairie farmhouse with a husband who looked upon conversation as a convenience, not a pastime. She learned much that winter about the utter solitude of farm life. She rarely saw any one outside her own little household. The front room—the parlor—was usually bitterly cold but sometimes she used a slip in there, a shawl over her shoulders, and sat at the frosty window to watch for a wagon to go by, or a chance pedestrian up the road. She did not pity herself, nor regret her step. She felt, physically, pretty well for a child-bearing woman; and Pervus was tender, kindly, sympathetic, if not always understanding. She struggled gallantly to keep up the small decencies of existence. She loved the glow in Pervus' eyes when she appeared with a bright ribbon, a fresh collar, though he said nothing and perhaps she only fancied that he noticed. Once or twice she had walked the mile and a half of slippery road to the Pools', and had sat in Maartje's warm bright bustling kitchen for comfort. It seemed to her incredible that a little more than a year ago she had first stepped into this kitchen in her modish brown lady's-cloth dress, muffled in wraps, cold but elated, interested, ready for adventure, surprise, discomfort—anything. And now here she was in that same kitchen, amazingly, unbelievably Mrs. Pervus De Jong, truck farmer's wife, with a child soon to be born. And where was adventure now? And where was life? And where the love of chance bred in her by her father?

The two years following Dirk's birth were always somewhat vague

TOO MUCH PERSONALITY

By Sophie Irene Loeb

A YOUNG woman was telling me the story of her sister and why she did not succeed in business. She said:

"The trouble with her is that she has too much personality. When ever she went to work, as a general thing, she thought more of the impression she made than of the work she did. When any two business men were discussing a very important matter, she would break in with something concerning herself and made them feel that they must realize that she was right there."

"At a business dinner where she was present, instead of giving her attention to the matter in hand, she was posing in the long earrings and handsome dress she wore. The people at the table could not help notice her and therefore, when she came to talk about the business, she did not seem to get attention because they were thinking too much of her personality rather than of the business proposition. In a word, she did not know how to submerge self for the success of the thing at hand."

"And from every place she has gone, she has been discharged for this terrible trait in her make-up," concluded this sister.

I fear it is a fault that is not unusual, and many a girl wonders why she loses her position when she has probably put too much ego into it and not enough energy. In short, she has thought too much of herself and not enough of her job. For if there is one place in the world where the personality of a person is of vital consequence it is in the commercial arena. Too much personality has spoiled many a successful issue.

When a person thrusts himself into the foreground, the real thing is lost sight of. This is not only the case with young women, but many a man who has reached the top of the ladder has grown dizzy with his own personality. He has become rather drunk with his rapid climb, and has failed to carry on his work because he has been seeing himself as more important than he really was.

Such a one wonders why he drops suddenly. It is because those who hire him soon realize that he is selling himself more than his product. 'Wise is he who knows when he is being studied rather than the business he is doing.'

The best kind of personality in the workaday world is that which is pleasing, but not too prominent; that is, confident without egotism; that has assurance without too much self-assurance; that is convincing without being cocksure; that is modest but not backward; that is progressive but not forward—in short, the personality that pays its way in the cause for which it is working.

FAMOUS WOMEN

ANNA HOWARD SHAW.

ANNA HOWARD SHAW was born on Feb. 14, 1847, at New-castle-on-Tyne, England, and was brought to America when 4 years of age by her parents, and when she was 12 they removed to the then Michigan wilderness. When still a slip of a girl she became a school teacher at the meager salary of $1 per week and "found."

She actually saved money out of this, amounting to the sum of $18, with which she entered Albion College. Enduring privation and hard work, she completed the four years' course in the Michigan college. Still she was not satisfied. Having been permitted to preach from a number of pulpits, she determined to study to become a minister. She went to Boston, graduating first from the theological seminary at Boston University, paying her expenses by teaching and lecturing.

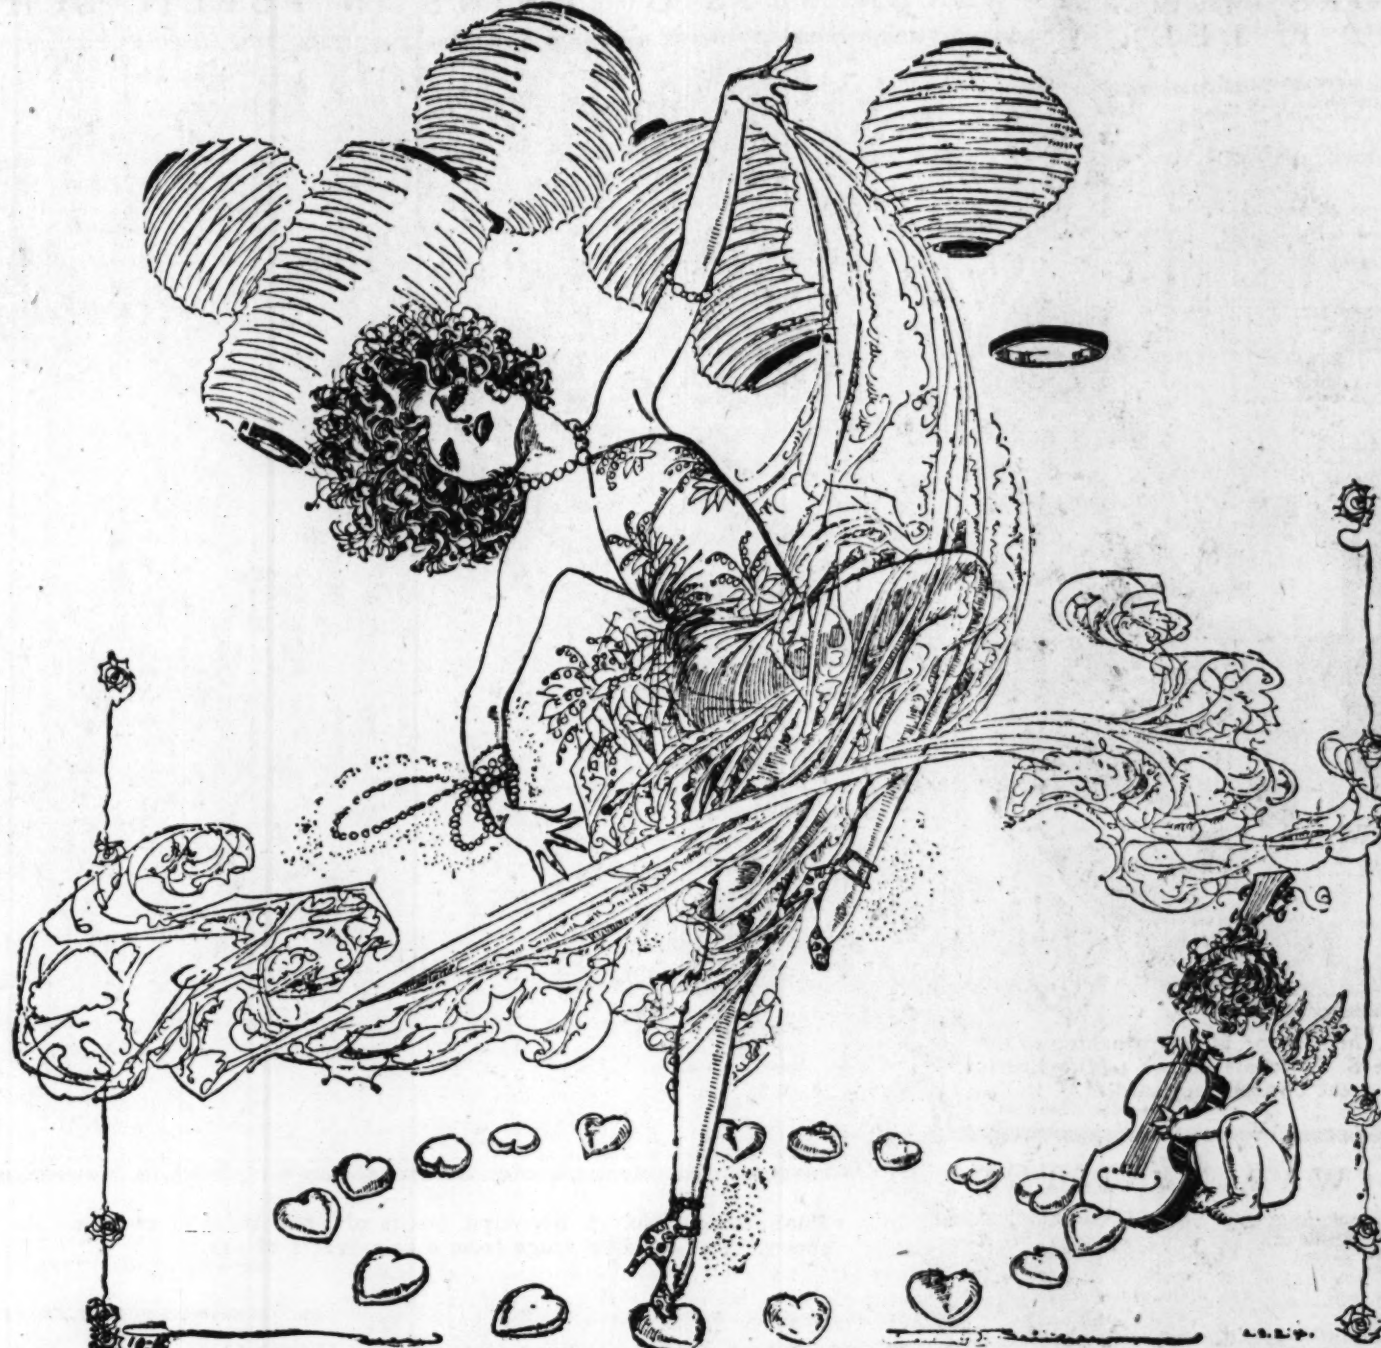

Selina had been married almost three years when there came to her a letter from Julie Hempel, now married. The letter had been sent to the Kloss Pool farm and Josina had brought it to her. Though she had not seen it since her days at Miss Pieter's school, Selina recognized the spidery handwriting with the shading and curlicues. Seated on her kitchen steps in her calico dress she read it.

Darling Selina: I thought was so queer that you didn't answer my letter and now I know you must have thought it queer that I did not answer yours. I found your letter to me, written long ago when I was going over mother's things last week. It was the letter you must have written when I was in Kansas City. Mother had never given it to me. I am not reproaching her. You see, I had written you from Kansas City, but had sent my letter to mamma to mail because I never could remember that funny address of yours in the country.

Mamma died three weeks ago. Last week I was going over her things—a trying task, you may imagine—and there were your two letters addressed to me. She had never destroyed them. Poor mamma.

Any Girl's Dream

SHE was just a plain Prudence, sweet and wholesome, and her father thought her quite pretty; a figure she herself considered a little too "dumpy," brown hair of no particular shade, a nose too short, a mouth too wide. She wore a bright sweater and a plaited skirt like a million other girls do. And she had only one beau—and she looked upon him coldly—and dreamed of waking up some bright morning to find herself with natural curly hair and "sheiks" at her feet—no less! For the beau was kind of a plain person himself.

Plain Prudence buried her too-short nose in the ads in the backs of the magazines, under the light of the family parchment shade, while Daddy, who thinks her quite pretty enough—and with one beau too many to suit him—reads the financial and comic pages of the paper across from her.

And that night she dreams—or right then under the lamp-light, for the matter of that—turning suddenly, after using a half-dozen miracle-performers for fifteen minutes, into an enchanting person of unbelievable grace and unearthly beauty who dances madly on the myriad of hearts thrown willingly and despairingly at her feet!

While complacent love, pleased with the success of the advertisements, gently twangs his light guitar in the offing.

MISERS.

SOME misers store their gold away in chests with iron bands, they lock it from the light of day with jealous, greedy hands. For they have hoarded years on years to graze their shivering, cold, and starved, and tears to grasp each farthing more. And they are of an ancient clan, for, since the dawn of time, when first the human race began its weary, upward climb, there have been men who, like the bees, sought but to hoard their gold, enduring endless miseries and petty daily pains. For still, one bliss repays them all the wearing hours of time, the gleam of gold is magical and hides life's soil and grime. For them no beauty lies in the themes of love or song or mirth; they find no joy in any dreams that bless or brighten, Earth. But, in some dim and gloomy place, close curtained from the light, they clasp their gold in fond embrace; their gold, forever bright! I am a miser, too, I own, with gold, treasure, store, and often as I sit alone I count my wealth once more. The smile you gave me long ago, upon a springtime day, though roses fade before the snow that smile blooms, sweet and gay. The tender look of love and trust that shone within your eyes, ah! many summers' blooms are dust, but still these memories rise! I count my treasures once again here in this quiet place, your love that knew no change or wane, the sunlight of your face. Poor misers, they, whose only store is stuff of yellow hue, for I have hoarded so much more in memories of you!

YOUR HEALTH

UNDERNOURISHMENT of children is a favorite theme with all health writers. It should be, because the physical condition of the growing child determines the health of the adult. Just as the foundation determines the stability of the building erected upon it, so does the vigor of middle-life depend on the body, bones and blood acquired in youth.

For nearly five years the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor has been trying out various methods for correcting the evil of undernourishment. At first thought you might jump to the conclusion that the correction of this trouble is simple. You may say it needs nothing more than the supply of sufficient food.

You are wrong. Undernourishment does not mean the lack of food necessarily. The fact is, you can find plenty of skinny, poorly nourished children in the homes of the rich where they may throw away enough food to supply another family less fortunate.

The constant eating of food of the wrong selection may be responsible for the undernourishment. It is not enough merely to satisfy the appetite. The stomach may be crowded full three times every day, but if the food is improperly chosen, the child will not prosper.

Of course, all the trouble may not be due to the food. The Bible says: "Man cannot live by bread alone." It certainly is a fact that considerations other than an ample supply of bread are essential to proper nourishment.

Food to the body is what fuel is to the stove. The fuel won't burn unless there is a good draft; that is, there must be plenty of air. The food we eat is of no account until it is burned in the body, or "oxidized" as the scientist calls the process. This is accomplished by the red blood and cannot take place unless the blood is constantly loaded down with oxygen. All the oxygen we get is taken into the lungs with the air. Unless there is deep breathing of pure air there is too little oxygen for the purposes of the body.

When you were a child you used to recite the story of the horseshoe nail. Let's see—how did it go?

"For the want of a nail, the shoe was lost. For the want of a shoe, the horse was lost. For the want of a horse the king was lost. For the want of a king the land was lost. All for the want of a horseshoe nail!"

To save your life in health, then, you must breathe deeply of pure air, to give oxygen to your lungs and blood, to burn and make useful the good food with which you have supplied your stomach. Without the oxygen all is lost.

To quote from the Association's report, "Many a wage earner is unable to increase his income to the safety level because of health conditions due to poor nutrition. Too many children who apparently show no signs of disease or malnutrition are allowed to drift into the wage earning period with only a part of the rightful earning capacity developed."

HEAD OF KLAN AT TIPTON SAYS NELSON NEVER WAS A MEMBER

Dan Chapman Also Asserts B. L. Morris and F. A. Collins Do Not Belong to Lodge There.

C. S. BURNS DROPPED FROM ROLLS, HE SAYS

Burns Reiterates He Saw Nelson Initiated and Declares He Cannot Be Mistaken of the Fact.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
TIPTON, Mo., Oct. 22.—Dan Chapman, "exalted cyclops" of the Tipton Lodge of the Ku Klux Klan, today declared that Dr. Arthur W. Nelson, Democratic nominee for Governor, is not and never was a member of that lodge.

Chapman said also that B. L. Morris and F. A. Collins, who have made a joint affidavit that they saw the name of "A. W. Nelson, Bunceton," on the membership book of the Tipton Lodge, are not members of that lodge, and therefore could not have had access to a membership book.

As to C. S. Burns, who has made an affidavit that he saw Dr. Nelson initiated into the Klan at California, 33 miles from here, Chapman said that he was formerly a member of the Tipton lodge, having taken the oath two years ago, but that he had been dropped for nonpayment of dues. The word "dropped" now appears on the roll beside Burns' name, Chapman said.

And as to the open-air meeting near California, in June, 1933, which was the occasion described by Burns in his affidavit, Chapman said that the persons initiated there were made members of the lodge at Tipton, not of the Tipton lodge, and therefore that the name of a person initiated at California would not be on the Tipton lodge book.

Chapman also made it known that he has signed three affidavits, which are in the hands of the Democratic State Committee at its St. Louis headquarters. The affidavits set forth (1) that Dr. Nelson is not and has not been a member of the Tipton Klan lodge; (2) that Morris and Collins are not members of the Tipton lodge; and (3) that Burns is a "dropped" member of the Tipton lodge.

"Dr. Nelson's name was never on our records either as a member or an applicant for membership," Chapman said to the correspondent.

"I visited that open-air meeting at California, as a visiting Klan officer," Chapman continued. "It was all under the auspices of the California lodge, and the 45 or so who were initiated became members of that lodge and not of the Tipton lodge or any other."

"There was a crowd at the general meeting, which came first. But at the initiation, within the inclosure, only klansmen were permitted to stay. The place was well lighted, and if Dr. Nelson had been there, I believe I would have seen him, as he is well known in that section. I did not see him. I don't remember seeing Burns, either."

Asked whether he believed that Burns and the other affidants had violated Klan obligations by their statements, Chapman said, "I certainly do." He said he did not suppose any action would be taken, as Burns had been dropped anyway, and the Tipton lodge of the Klan would have no jurisdiction over the two others.

Burns Repeats Statement.
Burns repeated to the correspondent, earlier in the day, the charge made in his affidavit. He said he talked the matter over with W. H. Olney, cashier of the Citizens Bank of Syracuse, Morgan County, before making the affidavit. Both Burns and Olney are Republicans, and Olney said today that he talked twice with Burns before persuading him to make the affidavit, which Burns said was made as a means of helping Dr. Nelson's Republican opponent, Sam A. Baker.

Burns is a farmer, living on a rented farm of 140 acres two miles west of Syracuse. He is 41 years old, and has a wife and five children, the oldest 13. He has lived in Morgan County all his life. The correspondent saw him at the farm.

Chapman As to Acquaintance.
"I knew Dr. Nelson was a Klansman," he said in reply to questions. "I have known him for 15 years."
